

Simonds named Businessman of the Year

For his "outstanding contribution to the Romulus community and its citizens", the Board of Directors of the Romulus Chamber of Commerce has selected William Simonds, owner of Bilmar's Supermarket, as the recipient of its first Businessman of the Year Award.

Simonds, a resident of Belleville, has owned Bilmar's (named after himself—Bill—and his wife Marie—Mar) since 1975.

The award, presented at the Businessman of the Year Banquet Saturday, recognizes Simonds for his many contributions for the improvement and betterment of the Romulus community.

Active in Romulus, he is a member of the Board of Directors of the Kiwanis Club, on the Board of Mrs. Simonds was presented with an orchid corsage at the banquet, held at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Van Born Road. More than 220 Romulus businessmen and residents turned out for the banquet.

According to Bingaman, nominees in the coming years will be submitted to the chamber not only by its members, but by the citizens of Romulus, making it a community-wide honor.

It's nearly census time

Pat Jordan, administrative assistant to Director Henry Redman of the Western Five Community Conference, holds one of the questionnaires soon to be sent out for the 1980 nation-wide census. Census was among topics discussed at monthly meeting of the new consortium and how it could help to count population of its member communities — Belleville, Romulus and the townships of Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron. (ANP photo.)

Western V urges census participation

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

The failure of U.S. residents to take about 15 minutes of their time to fill out questionnaires for the 1980 census could end up costing their communities millions of dollars in federal and state funds and lessen their representation in Congress.

That was the message heard recently by elected leaders of 5-member communities which make up the Western V Community Conference — Romulus and Belleville and the townships of Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron — at a meeting at the Van Buren Township Hall.

Beginning March 28, questionnaires will be mailed by the U.S. Census Bureau to every known household in the nation. The actual census count will officially begin on April 1.

Henry Redman, Western V director, told area leaders: "This is the only time for the next 10 years that residents of your communities can themselves ensure that their cities and townships will get the funding, services and programs they are entitled to."

No less a personage than Juanita Kreps, former Secretary of Commerce, speaking at last year's annual national conference of mayors, sounded a warning to visiting mayors.

"It is vital that you make your census count part of your personal agenda, beginning now. This single event may have more to do with how (communities) are treated in state houses and in Congress during the next decade than any other single activity in which you are engaged."

Explained to Western V community leaders was the constitutional purpose of the census — to provide a basis for the fair apportionment among states of seats in the U.S. House of Representatives, to guide the distribution of billions of dollars in federal funds to state and local governments, and to determine distribution of additional billions of dollars in state funds.

What happened when some 67,000 Detroit residents failed to be counted in the 1970 census was brought out dramatically to area officials. They were told that Detroit lost out on an estimated $52,000,000 in grants in the 1970s.

Since then, about 60,000 Detroit residents have migrated to the suburbs. Reflection of their total in suburban census figures this year could mean millions for those communities over the next 10 years.

Redman told area leaders he is concerned about the possibility of residents in Western V communities not filling out and returning census questionnaires.

Ignorance of the upcoming national census was revealed in a recent poll taken by a major Detroit newspaper. It showed:

— 39 percent did know of the 1980 census;

— 94 percent said they would take 15 minutes to fill out the census questionnaire;

— 4 percent said they would not fill them out; and

— 2 percent said they didn't know if they would fill them out.

Officially, the 1980 count of the nation's population and housing is known as the 20th decennial census, meaning it happens every 10 years. The U.S. Census Bureau estimates that 270,000 workers will be needed to check returned questionnaires, conduct door-to-door interviews when necessary, and to handle office tasks.

Information compiled during the census is kept confidential by the bureau for 72 years as required by law, then stored permanently in the

Fischer named acting school superintendent

Marvin P. Fischer has been appointed as interim superintendent of Romulus Community Schools, succeeding Supt. James M. Garfield, who had asked to be assigned to a lesser administrative position in the school system.

Fischer, since July 8, 1974, has served as director of instruction and assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction in the school system.

In the meantime, the Romulus Board of Education has launched a search for a new superintendent, said Wayne F. Avery, board president.

In November and again recently, Garfield had asked the school board to assign him to another administrative post. He said it was time for new blood in the top school job and time for him to step down now that school district voters had approved the latest millage request.

Garfield, who is 52, had served as superintendent for the last five years.

Last week, the school board honored Garfield's request, and upon his recommendation, appointed Fischer to replace him. Fischer will serve as interim head of Romulus schools until June 30 of this year, according to the board's action.

As head of Romulus Community Schools, the superintendent will be over 6,247 students who are housed and taught in 13 buildings — one senior high, two junior highs, eight elementary, one special education center, and one head start program building.

The Romulus school superintendent heads a staff of 26 administrators and 330 teachers and three non-certified supervisors and 240 non-teaching, non-certified staff.

As head of the public schools in Romulus, the superintendent administers a school district with a state equalized valuation of $224,564,913 and which operates on a current total budget of $13,156,502.

Teachers under his command are paid annual salaries which range from a minimum of $12,239 for those with a bachelor's degree and no experience to a maximum of $26,968 with a doctor's degree and 10 steps up the salary schedule.

Avery said applicants for the superintendent's position should have the minimum requirements of a master's degree plus additional hours of graduate credit with emphasis in educational administration, Michigan teacher's certificate plus other standards established by the North Central Association, and at least 10 years of successful experience in teaching and administration of public schools plus system-wide or superintendency experience.

Interested and qualified applicants for the superintendent's job are asked to submit a letter of interest, a completed application blank, an up-to-date resume and placement credentials to Shirley Lombardi, secretary, Romulus Board of Education, 36540 Grant Road, Romulus 48174.

Deadline for applications will be March 14.

Completed applications, resumes and placement credentials will be reviewed by a screening committee, chaired by Dr. Evert Ardis of the University of Michigan. Final review and interviews will be conducted by the school board.

Avery said it is expected that the new superintendent will be selected by May. Salary for the position is open and will be commensurate with the experience, ability, and preparation of the candidates selected, he stressed.

Garfield presently is being paid $39,000 per year.

Detectives identify body found in ditch

The nude body of a 19-year-old black woman was found frozen in a ditch by children walking through a field Sunday afternoon behind Hampton House at Ecorse and Niagara streets in Romulus.

Detective Jo Price of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department said the body has been identified as that of Sherry Renee Warren of Detroit. The body apparently had been dumped there on the previous night.

The detective said Miss Warren had been shot once in the head by a high-powered handgun, adding that police experienced some difficulty in extricating the body from ice in the ditch.

Price and Det. Frank Burton are continuing their investigation in the homicide, following up on several leads they have received on the case. The body was discovered about 1:30 p.m.

Community Church hosts evangelist Dr. Thomas

Dr. G. Ernest Thomas will preach and teach at the 10 a.m. worship service and 11 a.m. church school of Community United Methodist Church Sunday.

The special program is part of the church's Human Relations Day and will be held at the Romulus Senior Citizens Center, 36515 Bibbins St.

The church congregation currently is meeting there, after a fire destroyed its church structure. Preliminary work on a new church is underway.

Dr. Thomas has lectured widely and in April will celebrate his 52nd year of continuous service in the ministry of Jesus Christ, including the past 8 years "in retirement". A native of England, Dr. Thomas was raised in New Hampshire. The son of a Methodist minister, he received his theological education and completed his doctoral work at the Boston University School of Theology.

He served pastorates in New Hampshire and New Jersey before becoming a member of the General Board of Evangelism, where he served as director of the department of spiritual life for 12½ years.

In 1962 he became senior minister of the Birmingham First United Methodist Church, where he served until June 1972. At the time of his retirement, Dr. Thomas was honored by being elected minister emeritus of that church.

Since his retirement, Dr. Thomas has spent the past 8 years traveling extensively, serving as personal consultant and conducting spiritual life missions and preaching missions and retreats.

Pastor Floyd Ellison has extended an invitation to the Romulus community to hear Dr. Thomas.

The club, composed of elderly residents from throughout the city, meets on Tuesdays at the new Senior Center, 36515 Bibbins, at 11 a.m. A light luncheon is served weekly, with potluck on the fourth Tuesday. Various activities, workshops and holiday celebrations are scheduled throughout the year. Voc ed students will show off their 'know how'

Romulus Senior High School vocational education students and teachers have "know-how."

They are going to show off their skills during National Vocational Week next week. The theme will be "Know How: Vocational Education Serves the Nation."

Special events are being planned and community and business leaders will be invited. Displays, tours, luncheons, dinner, drawings, and business interview videotaping are scheduled for the week-long project.

Vocational classes include office education, auto mechanics, data processing, welding, tailoring, building trades, drafting, photography, consumer education, store management, health occupations, commercial foods, cosmetology and child care.

Monday will be "Meet the Staff Day." The main high school lobby will display photos of vocational instructors, giving a personal description of their out-of-school lives, hobbies, interests and occupational and family background.

An evening dinner and tour, prepared by the commercial foods class is planned for Tuesday for the business advisory committee members and school and city administrators.

Senior citizens Wednesday will be treated to a tour that will include hair appointments, blood pressure and temperature check, bio-rhythm demonstrations and lunch.

Tours will be conducted for the community on "Community Day" next Thursday, and students will get their turn to be in the limelight by demonstrating their skills.

Videotaping of students interviewing businesses is now taking place and will be shown during Vocational Education Week.

Anyone wishing to come to the school during the special week or who have questions is asked to call 941-2170, ext. 32.

Western V urges: 'Be counted'

U.S. National Archives in Washington, D.C.
The bureau estimates that 90 percent of those receiving questionnaires will fill out and return them, leaving the 10 percent left to be completed after follow-up by census takers, or enumerators.

Michigan will have about 10,000 enumerators employed in the coming census, 2,300 in Detroit alone. Enumerators will be paid from $3 to $4 an hour, slightly more than the minimum hourly wage set by Congress.

Area residents desiring employment as enumerators are asked to call the district office of the Census Bureau in the Federal Building in Detroit for information, Redman said. Successful passage of a 1-hour test is a requirement, he added.

To make sure that an accurate count is made, many communities are appointing a volunteer group, a complete count committee. Its task is to publicize the census to every community resident, to urge that questionnaires be filled out and returned, and to make their respective communities aware of the importance of the census.

At the recent Western V meeting, Redman suggested that one complete count committee be appointed for the entire region populated by its five member communities.

At the present time, Huron Township is in the process of appointing its own complete county committee, according to Supervisor Roy Raker. A precinct workers list is being used to select members from both major political parties, with representation from all walks of life.

In Romulus, Jay Young, the city's public information officer, has been asked by Mayor William M. Oakley to organize local efforts to appoint a complete county committee, Redman explained. Young said that eight different categories of the city's population will be included in the group.

Actually, the concept of a complete count committee was born and tried with success by the City of Detroit in the 1970 census. At that time, it was called the correct count committee.

Its success led to its use on a nationwide basis and subsequent refinement by the Census Bureau. In 1978, the complete count committee format was used with great success in Richmond, Va., where a direct rehearsal census was conducted. Proponents claimed an 80 percent return on mailed out questionnaires.

Questionnaires to be mailed out March 28 by the Census Bureau actually will be of two different types. The short form will take about 15 minutes to fill out, while the longer form will use up an estimated 45 minutes to complete.

Only one in six residents will receive the longer form in which questions are asked on a larger number of categories. Data compiled by the census will provide more statistical information about more geographical areas than any previous census.

The census bureau said the census findings are vitally necessary in addressing the needs of the nation's population and in the planning and management of government at the federal, state and local levels.

Census data will directly influence decisions on matters of national and local importance, such as economy, education, employment, business cycles, highway use, social security, need for health services, parks, water, energy and international relations, the bureau stated.

Census information will enable the business world to determine sites for relocation, evaluate product lines, analyze trends, design sales programs, and develop strategies for marketing and advertising.

As required by the U.S. Constitution, the nationwide census is to be conducted each 10 years, with results turned in to the President by Jan. 1 of the following year. By April 1 of the year following the census the Census Bureau must make available to State Legislatures the population totals for all counties, cities and other political subdivisions in those states.

According to the Census Bureau, the 1980 census will focus on an estimated 39,000 governmental units in the United States, its territories and its possessions.

The census bureau stressed that all collected census data is to be kept confidential. Violation is punishable by five years in prison and a $5,000 fine for any census employee.

Omissions and mistakes in the 1970 census were attributable to three variables, the census bureau explained — laws and methodology; census takers' errors; and refusal of some citizens to cooperate, lack of interest, or fear that confidentiality would be violated.

Redman concluded that the importance of citizen cooperation in the 1980 census undertaking cannot be overemphasized. Each and every resident will play an invaluable part in his or her community's future by filling out and returning census questionnaires efficiently and promptly, he said.

SUMPTER TOWNSHIP BOARD MINUTES

MINUTES OF A SPECIAL MEETING OF THE SUMPTER TOWNSHIP BOARD
HELD ON JANUARY 28, 1980

Meeting called to order by Supervisor Demski at 7:25 P.M. Roll Call Showing:

Present: Supervisor Demski, Clerk Hoffman, Treasurer Russell and Trustees: Korotney, Morgan and Williams

Absent: Folks

Also present: Consultant Larry Bauman

Motion by Williams, supported by Morgan to accept agenda. Motion carried unanimously.

Agenda

1. Pledge
2. Roll Call
3. Approval of Agenda
4. Sherwood Park Site Discussion
5. Adjournment

Morgan stated that since the last meeting on the park site some of his doubts have been alleviated. Questioned whether or not there has been approval of the use of $20,000 out of the Special Needs Grant.

Larry Bauman explained the original pre-application was for $250,000, but the funding has been severely curtailed. Received communication from D.N.R. approving $60,000.

Larry Bauman also explained the tennis courts would have 10' chain link fence surrounding them with a gate and lock. The courts would all be regulation size. If necessary someone would have to be assigned to unlock and lock up the gates. Also porta-johns would have to be provided if there was a need.

The question was brought up as to whether the Sherwood Site could be developed as a State Park. Bauman didn't think so, with the Metropolitan Authority Parks being so close in the area, but Township could petition D.N.R.

Motion by Williams, supported by Korotney to adopt a resolution to authorize the submittal of an L & WCF-HCRS Grant Application to the State of Michigan, Department of Natural Resources for the development of Phase I of said 80 acre parcel in the amount of $60,000 and that Sumpter Township Board of Trustees hereby authorizes the expenditure of funds in the amount of 100 percent of the total program cost, assuming a commitment for reimbursement of 50 percent of the total cost from L & WCF-HCRS grant funds upon completion of the development of Phase I of the property. One nay - Russell. Motion carried.

Motion by Korotney, supported by Hoffman to adjourn. Meeting adjourned as 8:15 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Clarence J. Hoffman, Jr., Clerk

EMU to offer parenting classes

The Contemporary Parenting Program at Eastern Michigan University is once again offering various parenting courses throughout the area.

Since last year, the EMU program has offered 8-week courses in parent education for adoptive parents, single parents, stepparents, foster parents, parents of teen-agers and preschool children and parents of physically, mentally or emotionally impaired children. Courses also are available about handling discipline, lying, dishonesty and destructive behavior, helping children with basic skills and separation of a parent and child.

"The courses are designed to combine parents' experiences, the needs of the group and a class outline. The classes are flexible," said Angie Laycock, coordinator of the program's classes in southeastern Michigan. "Most of the learning that takes place in the courses is from conversations between parents. The course instructor really does little talking. Collectively, parents have the answers to situations."

During the 2- to 2½-hour sessions, parents discuss problems or experiences, receive handouts of current interest and perhaps view film strips or videotapes or hear a guest speaker.

"The program courses have gotten an interesting cross-section of parents. Some parents have a real family crisis. Others come to the classes just to get information."

"What's surprising is that all parents are sensitive to each other's needs. They are sympathetic because they all know that parenting is a tough job," Laycock said.

Some parenting courses are cosponsored by human service agencies or organizations such as the Department of Social Services and the YWCA. In addition, some parenting courses are free while others have a small charge, depending on where they are held.

Eight-week EMU parenting courses offered this winter include: — "A Handicapped Child in the Family," beginning Feb. 6, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Melvin G. Bailey Recreation Center, 36651 Ford Road, Westland.

— "Step-parenting" will be offered at two locations, Ann Arbor, beginning Feb. 7, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Zion Lutheran Church conference room, 1501 West Liberty; and Garden City, beginning Feb. 11, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Maplewood Community Center, 31735 Maplewood.

— "Fathering," beginning Feb. 19, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at the Dorsey Community Center, Dorsey Street, Westland.

— "Teenagers: A Challenge for Parents," will be offered at four locations including, Westland, beginning Feb. 6, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Wilson School, 1225 Wildwood; Detroit, beginning Feb. 11, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Wilson School, 1225 Wildwood; Detroit, beginning Feb. 11, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Henry Ford High School, 20000 Evergreen; and Romulus, beginning Feb. 21, from 10 a.m. to noon at the Department of Social Services, 38211 Van Born Road. The class is limited to those who receive assistance from the department.

Yet this winter, the Contemporary Parenting Program will offer additional classes for parents of preschoolers and single parents.

For further information or to register for parenting classes offered in the area, call Angie Laycock at 487-0372.

All parenting courses are taught by instructors who have attended the Contemporary Parenting Program's training seminars. The instructors come from all walks of life and include educators, counselors and human services employees such as social workers who have a strong background in different kinds of parenting situations.

The EMU program is funded by a federal grant.

For further information or to register for the classes, call the Contemporary Parenting Program at 487-0372.

Notaries publish brochure

A new brochure explaining the purpose of notarization and the functions of a Notary Public now is available — without charge — to the general public, according to the National Notary Association.

The new brochure, entitled "What Is a Notary Public?", is intended to clear up misconceptions about Notaries and better prepare consumers for understanding notarization.

Most adults in the United States will require the services of a Notary several times in their lifetime, often in connection with important real estate, mortgage, and insurance documents.

For this reason, the need to understand notarization and proper notarial procedures is critical for the consumer in order to avoid the invalidation of his document and the increasing problem of notarial fraud.

Single copies of the brochure are available free by calling (213) 347-2035, or by writing to the National Notary Association, 23012 Ventura Blvd., Woodland Hills, Calif. 91364.

HAROLD REDISKE JR.

What name should a widow use?
A widow, until she remarries, should keep her husband's name. She should be addressed not as Mrs. Margaret Jones, but as Mrs. Joseph Jones.

If she were to remarry, she would have the option of using her first husband's name as a middle name or of dropping his name and using her own maiden name. If she'd been married a long time and if she had children, she would undoubtedly keep the name of the man with whom she spent many years and which identified her with her children.

Shorter mourning periods
The widow's mourning period has shortened over the years. Early in the 20th century, the widow was expected to wear deep crepe for a year, followed by two six-month periods of less extreme mourning. Today the young widow may well wear black for a single season and then stick to subdued shades for a few more months.

Emily Post's Etiquette was and still is a cornerstone of proper behavior. It contains valuable information on proper behavior in most facets of today's life, including death and funerals. We will be glad to explain or elaborate on these proper behaviors as they fit our local scene. Call or stop by.

If I can be asked to empty my pockets at the airport in front of everybody (which I am glad to do), I see no reason why school kids can't be asked to open their lockers, if the principal has a suspicion they are concealing contraband of one type or another.

And yet I am reading and hearing that we would be depriving these youths of their constitutional rights, if we implement this recommendation of the Ohio Governor's Task Force on School Discipline.

Never mind that the lockers might contain drugs, weapons or alcoholic beverages. Youth's freedom, we are told, must be defended.

Some criticize the task force's report on the grounds that it is directed against the symptoms of delinquency, not the causes. But attacking the symptoms can sometimes be the best way to get the job done.

Alcoholics Anonymous has helped countless thousands to quit drinking without inquiring into the cause of their drinking problem. Many AAs, as a matter of fact, went the psychiatric route — and found it to be wasted time and money — before joining AA.

Drinking may be the symptom of an underlying problem. But symptoms, as any drinker knows, can become serious problems in their own right, problems which cry out for direct attention. They also can be the cause of other people's problems — as any drinker's family knows.

The same can be said of youths and their use of drugs, guns, knives and liquor. By cutting youths off at the locker may not be treating their troubled psyches, but certainly we will make a lot of other people feel better about themselves. And more secure.

In the homes and schools in which you and I grew up 30 and 40 years ago, there was subtle inquiry into why we children failed in our duties.

If we did wrong we were told so, and we were expected to amend our ways.

There were many injustices in the old way, but at least children were regarded as responsible personalities capable of doing right — and to be blamed, not pitied, when they did wrong.

I sometimes wonder whether a lot of trouble with our youth — and with ourselves — doesn't stem from the disappearance of fear in our lives.

We used to be afraid of hell — but we don't believe in hell any longer.

We used to have a fear of God — but this God has been replaced by a God who is all love. Offending him doesn't frighten us anymore.

Even in the secular realm, many of the old fears are gone. Punishment for wrongdoing often is so slight that it is worth the risk of perpetrating the evil deed and getting caught.

Alexis Carrel, the scientist-philosopher, said: "There are only two constructive passions. One is love, the other is fear. Both engender action." We need both emotions in our lives.

Stephen King, who wrote "Salem's Lot," has a short story entitled "Quitters, Inc."

Quitters, Inc., is a program for people who want to quit smoking. It is only after a person signs up that he learns the organization is run by the Mafia. But it is too late then to drop out.

He is told that the first time he smokes after enrolling, the Mafia will snatch his wife and torture her by applying electric shock to the soles of her feet.

For the second offense, one enrollee is told his retarded son will be kidnapped from the private school he attends, and both his arms will be broken.

The punishments get successively worse — each more brutal than the one before.

The system, we find out in King's story, works better than any other to induce a man to kick the smoking habit.

As a matter of fact, after the fifth offense, Quitters, Inc., absolutely guarantees that the enrollee will never smoke again — because he'll "wake up dead the next morning" with a bullet through his head.

That may be carrying fear too far. Certainly, though, asking a pupil to open his locker for the principal does not fall in the "brutal" category. Meanwhile, it may instill a little fear in a youth where it can do some good.

Editorial opinions

Seniors

The passage of Senate Bill 97, a bill which provides a tuition waiver for senior citizens ages 60 and older, should mark the beginning of a new era for our older citizens.

The bill was recently reported out of the House Colleges and Universities Committee which Rep. William Keith chairs, and through Keith's leadership, the vote was unanimous.

With the signing into law of the bill by the governor on Feb. 4, 1980, seniors in Michigan will have an opportunity not only to improve their own knowledge and expertise, but will also provide the state with a valuable new resource.

For too long seniors have been relegated to the ranks of the senile and only the most persistent have been able to maintain both their perspective and feeling of self worth. While this is certainly not the way things should be, it certainly has been the way they were until recently.

We believe seniors have always constituted an untapped resource.

Having lived life, raised families and suffered the ups-and-downs of reality, who better relates to the past, can help protect the future?

The signing into law of Senate Bill 97 represents a remarkable achievement. An achievement that took a considerable amount of work to accomplish. The risk now is that our seniors will fail to take full advantage of the bill's offerings.

We would urge the full disclosure of the bill's provisions to all state senior clubs and other interested groups.

Further we would urge local government to work to implement the bill's provisions and to make senior citizens aware of this valuable new benefit.

While seniors usually have represented the wisdom of time, and have provided the young with valuable insight, often some only reluctantly heeded the advice, and others did not even hear.

In part that response to the lectures from our seniors was due to a credibility gap.

Today's college-educated leaders usually have reluctantly accepted any advice from even their peers. And when a senior provided advice, most officials only politely listened.

With seniors taking full advantage of this bill's provisions and eventually gaining the credibility that accompanies a college degree or other formal training in some specialty, their collective input will carry more weight.

We support the legislative efforts of those lawmakers who have worked to provide our seniors with both more productive and consequently more satisfying retirement years.

Maybe now we can take full advantage of the valuable experiences our seniors have to offer.

Stories

How does one go about getting a news item published in the paper? A common question asked by hundreds of individuals and groups throughout the community.

A community group or civic organization should suggest that their group give one person the responsibility of dealing with the paper. That person should come into the office and discuss with the news editor, the paper's deadline for news items in your community, the type of photographs suitable for inclusion in the paper, and the identifying information for photographs.

An individual who wishes to place an item in the paper should also contact the news editor for deadlines and the proper procedures for preparing news material and photos for submission.

In general, any item submitted to your paper will have a better chance of getting in if a few simple guidelines are followed.

Always type submitted material, if possible. It is time-consuming and costly for the newspaper to type material that is submitted in handwritten form. Further, some people write illegibly and it is almost impossible to read their information.

Again, if material is typed, it should be triple spaced. This will allow the editor to correct spelling and grammatical errors. Single-spaced letters do not provide any space for those corrections.

If the material is submitted handwritten, it should also be triple-spaced on lined paper, and the material should be printed rather than written.

Photographs which accompany any news item submitted to the paper should be black and white, no smaller than two inches square or larger than 8 by 10 inches. All photographs should have the name of the subjects printed on the back, and also the name of the person they are to be returned to.

Color photographs sometimes can be used, but may be rejected by the photo editor, if he believes they will not reproduce properly.

If a photograph is necessary to properly support the news item sent in, a call well in advance of the activity should be made to request that a photographer be assigned.

While it is impossible for the paper to assign a photographer to all the requested events, we will make every effort to cover events of a broad general interest.

Clip this article from the paper and keep it handy for those times when you might wish to submit an article to the paper.

By following these guidelines, you will make our job easier and your article better.

We are standing by waiting to hear from you.

Levin's Washington

UNICEF and Thailand

By CARL LEVIN
U.S. Senator

After all of their suffering, the Cambodian refugees deserve a better fate.

They escaped the killing by former Cambodian Prime Minister Pol Pot, starvation and Vietnamese invasion. They should not be made to endure profiteers and gun battles in their refugee camps.

Instead of distributing rice to the estimated 500,000 Cambodians taking refuge in the camps along the border between Thailand and Cambodia, the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) and the International Red Cross simply take the food to the camps, leaving the actual distribution to the camp leadership.

The camp strongmen and their armed soldiers can skim a share of the rice to sell to their fellow refugees — many of whom came out of Cambodia carrying their life savings of gold that was hidden away during the Pol Pot terror — or to anyone else.

With the profiteering comes violence.

The Red Cross temporarily cut off food to a camp, Non Mak Mun, after soldiers looted a rice convoy headed for the camp.

We should understand, however, the Red Cross dilemma as we enter phase two of the Cambodian refugee relief effort. Phase one is the crash program to save a people on the verge of extinction. Phase two, following the phase one success on the border — not within Cambodia — should be a measured effort to keep Cambodians alive and able to reclaim their country one day.

To do this, the United Nations should establish a presence in the border camps as requested by the Thais last year and a Senate resolution inroduced recently by U.S. Senator S.I. Hayakawa (R-California) and myself.

The UN is needed to distribute food and provide security because the Thais, who do not even acknowledge that the border camps are in Thailand, cannot be expected to take control. It would bring them perilously close to conflict with the Vietnamese troops occupying Cambodia.

With the UN in the border camps between the Thais and their traditional enemies, the Vietnamese, the Vietnamese would be less likely to attack either the camps or the Thais.

Part two of phase two should be a change in U.S. policy on the seating of Pol Pot's Khmer Rouge government in the UN. The Khmer Rouge, whose four-year rule of Cambodia may have been one of the most barbaric in history, has a seat in the UN thanks in part to American support.

The argument for voting to seat Pol Pot at the UN is that it was a vote against the Vietnamese invasion that displaced him, not a vote for Pol Pot.

Well, the refugees say they cannot choose between the two evils, and neither should we. The seat should be left vacant until the Vietnamese leave and a Cambodian government is established in Cambodia or until there is a substantial change in the Khmer Rouge.

As Asian statesman Carlos Romulo says, support of Pol Pot "demeans" the opposition to Vietnamese occupation of Cambodia. Support for Pol Pot, moreover, plays into the hands of the Vietnamese who invaded Cambodia last year ostensibly to liberate the Cambodians from his brutal rule.

The Chinese, who arm Khmer Rouge insurgents holding out against the Vietnamese in Cambodia, should be told that the Khmer Rouge will lose our UN support if there is not a change in the leadership and the deadly philosophy of the Khmer Rouge.

We should continue to pressure the Soviet Union, Vietnam and Cambodia's Heng Samrin government. Whether lack of distribution in Cambodia is purposeful or not (relief agencies are in dispute about this), it is indisputable that much of the relief rice delivered to the Cambodian ports of Phnom Penh and Kompong Som remains in warehouses. New arrivals in the refugee camps invariably say there is famine in Cambodia.

Because the Soviets supply the Vietnamese, and the Vietnamese prop up Heng Samrin in Cambodia, we should let neither the Soviet Union nor Vietnam rest until the suffering in Cambodia stops. As long as it controls Cambodia, the Vietnamese army as the only organized force in Cambodia has an obligation to distribute food to Cambodians.

Cambodia, for the most part, remains closed to the outside world. Until we can see for ourselves that they are well, we should not forget about the Cambodians inside.

They also deserve a better fate.

(Senator Levin recently returned from a 12-day trip to Southeast Asia regarding the Cambodian refugees.)

Editor's log

Volunteers and others

The neatly stacked boxes lined the warehouse walls. Millions of dollars of exotic drugs, medical supplies, and equipment were waiting patiently for distribution to the needy of the world.

The place, World Medical Relief of Detroit.

The records in disarray, untrained personnel scurrying around looking busy, and the Executive Director recently fired for alleged fraud, set the scene at the agency supposed to be helping the less fortunate.

The place, Communities United for Action (CUFA), in Taylor.

Perhaps few examples so graphically demonstrate the difference between an effective vehicle for getting help to those who need it, and those that don't. And in a word, "volunteer" appears to be the key to that difference.

At World Medical Relief, 11 staffers, most volunteers, have over the last several years, shipped more than 500 tons of vitally needed supplies around the world. Those supplies, with a value of more than 342 million dollars, got to where they were supposed to go, on time, and for the lowest possible cost because those volunteers cared about what they were doing.

At CUFA, in spite of the federal government's dumping of billions of dollars into Community Action Programs, they remain unable to effectively administer even the simplest tasks without graft, corruption, and fraud, perpetrated on both the government and the agency's clients as well.

At CUFA, there are few volunteers who care about what they are doing. At CUFA, employees are handsomely paid for doing little they are accountable for.

While it is no secret that volunteer workers are, and remain, the very backbone of many humanitarian projects around the world, in our country the government has apparently decided that such projects represent a threat to the bureaucratic philosophy which requires high salaries and higher benefits to produce low productivity and even lower morale.

The Jaycees of Michigan and the U.S. have for years demonstrated the very best example of volunteerism at work. Their projects work, cost little, and manage to get all the money to those who need it.

Many other area and national service clubs have also demonstrated the validity of the volunteer spirit that produces. But government continues to simply dump billions of our tax dollars into fraud-ridden programs where few are helped. Government has in fact, out of hand rejected the concept of allowing service clubs to administer programs currently mismanaged by agencies like CUFA. The federal government is wrong.

State government is also wrong for allowing this corruption to continue, and we are wrong for not insisting that it be brought to an end.

The ring of the telephone woke 84-year-old Irene Auberlin, founder and chairman of World Medical Relief, from her sleep.

It was 4 a.m. and Kriang Chaman, Prime Minister of Thailand, was on the phone.

His country, one of the last democracies in that area of the world, was struggling to provide a sanctuary for the fleeing Cambodians forced from their homes by Marxist forces.

"Please send us anything you can spare,"

By DENNIS FASSETT
ANP Managing Editor

Chaman said. "We have sufficient food, but medical supplies are severely limited and there is great need."

Putting the wheels into motion, Mrs. Auberlin watched only hours later as trucks, driven by volunteer workers, headed to the airport to deliver the first of the vital supplies. The planes, their cargo space also donated for the effort, stood waiting for the materials. Within hours of that early morning call to Mrs. Auberlin by the Thailand Prime Minister, the medical supplies were being unloaded in that county and were being administered to the refugees.

Volunteers at work. The ring of the phone interrupted William McGill at his county office. On the other end of the line was an employee of CUFA, the agency McGill served as Chairman of the Board.

The employee, in a startled voice, informed the chairman that the FBI had just arrived at the Taylor offices and was in the process of impounding all of CUFA's financial records.

Acting under a Federal Grand Jury subpoena, the FBI was about to close the agency and investigate some of its top officers for padding their paychecks.

Government bureaucracy at work! Perhaps someday the concept of volunteerism will again be recognized as an honorable calling. But until then, we will have to simply endure the federal government's inept attempts to provide for us, that which we can better provide for ourselves.

And besides, maybe we can get one of our relatives a job with the government, the only employer in the world to reward incompetence.

From your lawmakers

Time for a new beginning

By DAVID A. PLAWECKI
State Senator

The start of a new year is, for each of us, a time for re-evaluating old lists and setting new priorities for the year ahead. This week, the leaders of state government are presenting their priorities for the coming year—the major issues we think must be at the top of the agenda during the next twelve months.

As Senate Majority Floor Leader, I would like to focus my comments on the public issues we in the Senate leadership consider are to be the most important.

One of the key priorities in the Senate will be making Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield a more consumer-oriented and responsive health insurer. To that end, we will be pressing for adoption of legislation, currently under consideration in the Senate Commerce Committee, designed to restructure the organization. In bringing about this reform, our intent is to ensure that the company is instituting effective cost containment procedures and readily responding to the needs of consumers.

A major challenge of the 1980 legislative session will be to meet the crucial needs of Michigan residents despite projections of lean economic conditions. Our task will be to eliminate unnecessary state expenditures, so that depleted revenues can be spent on essential human service programs.

Without a doubt, the governor's veto of the sunset measure sent to him by the legislature will hinder our efforts to effectively monitor and reduce inefficiency in state agencies and programs. Nonetheless, the problem still remains of stretching a modest state budget and must be done without jeopardizing genuine human needs.

Michigan's working men and women are the backbone of our state, and labor issues will continue to dominate legislative attention over the next twelve months. As Chairman of the Senate Labor Committee a review of the state's unemployment compensation system will be one of the first items of committee business. In addition, we will be hammering out the details of a measure calling for public employee strike regulations—a measure intended to help speed the process of settling labor disputes between public employee groups and their employers.

The effort to reform our state's outmoded workers' compensation system will continue. Discussions among a special reform task force of lawmakers, state officials, and labor-management representatives are continuing in an effort to seek a compromise on reform of the system—an agreement which should provide more equitable benefits for Michigan workers who are injured on the job.

A measure designed to help customers fight rate increases by restructuring electric power rates is also on this year's calendar, as is a series of proposals aimed at clarifying ambiguities in the state's campaign finance laws.

Also, early this year, we should be acting on legislation to streamline governmental operations in Wayne County. While I recognize the fact that Wayne County is experiencing some severe and deep-rooted financial problems, I must insist that suburban residents of the county be given a strong and effective voice in the future operation of the county government.

All in all, the next twelve months will be busy for members of both legislative houses. The Democratic Majority in both the Senate and the House is committed to making Michigan a better place to live, work and do business. As a member of the Democratic leadership in the Michigan Senate, I'm confident that we will enact effective and responsible legislation to make this commitment a reality in the year ahead.

Dear Carol,

Please don't use my name because the other guys here would really get me if they knew I wrote a dear Carol letter. We read you a lot around here and have a lot of laughs but I also know that a lot of guys are really serious when they read you.

One thing you wrote that we talked a lot about was when you wrote about the reason why people call policemen cops.

Dear C.O.P.,

Just like a cop to want to get the facts straight. It seems to me that I used to hear that said in a police program I watched on television as a kid.

You would be surprised how many police officers mentioned that article to me and told me the same story you just did. And it is interesting that not one of them seemed to consider cop a derogatory term. Thanks a lot for sharing this information with me so that I might share it with my readers.

Dear Carol,

My 2 year old daughter died of leukemia recently. I can still hardly believe it. People say many things — "How sad," "How unfortunate," "I'm sorry," but I feel

You said it was because policemen used to have copper buttons. I have heard that story but I have one that goes back even further. A long time ago police used to be called constables. When a constable was working it was called on Patrol and they said Constable on Patrol. The initials are C.O.P. Get it. Just thought you might like to get the facts straight.

C.O.P.

like there is a tremendous gulf between us. How can they understand — she was just a baby — my baby. I don't know where to turn. Please help.

Mother

Dear Mother,

Most people don't know what to say at such a time. They feel awkward and inept but generally mean well. Since there is little which can be said to ease the burden of grief of parents who have lost a child, I usually urge these parents to seek out people who can understand. These are people who have experienced similar situations and can have a common bond of understanding. Expressing feelings and sharing in a common based group has proven very helpful to many people.

Grief is hard work and sharing with understanding friends can brighten the burden. One such group is called "The Compassionate Friends." Membership is open to parents who have experienced the death of a child. There are no dues and they are financed through voluntary contributions.

Reflections

Not to your mother!

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

In the middle of the night the telephone rang. A high girlish voice came singing over the wires, "Hi! I thought maybe you would like to hear my voice once more in case I die."

This was my youngest, who, at 19, had not yet passed 16 months of age in her mother's eyes, and who had been spending a month in Texas having a freedom ball, while her mother chewed off all her fingernails at home.

"What makes you think you might die?" I asked as calmly as I could while pushing down the fear tangles going all over my body.

"The plane might crash!"

Visions of a plane diving from the skies in a fiery crash, carrying my baby danced before my eyes. I beat my fists into my pillow and wished for the millionth time of my motherhood that I had been born a father, for even ringing telephones, and crashing planes possibly carrying one's youngest to eternity, couldn't disturb his dream state.

Fighting rising hysteria and the feeling of inadequacy at being here and not there, I assured her the plane would bring her safely home.

There was a pregnant silence, and then she sighed, "Well, if I make it to the airport, I just MIGHT be able to make it home."

"What do you mean IF you make it to the airport?"

"Well, we ran out of gas this morning at 5:30 and had to sit by the side of the road until someone came along and gave us a couple of gallons to get us home."

"HOW can you run out of gas?"

"Easy. The gas gauge is broken and we haven't any money even if it weren't. So if there's enough gas left over from what those fellows gave us we will make it to the airport."

Naturally I screamed. I shouted and I screamed and I beat on the pillow. Then I beat on my sleeping spouse and he woke up and grabbed the telephone.

In a calm, sweet voice he said, "See you at 8:50 in the morning baby. Be careful!" And hung up.

The rest of the night was spent in fear.

The plane was fifteen minutes late. I kept running out and scanning the skies, but the airport people don't like for anxious mothers to be cluttering up their runways, and besides it was making my husband embarrassed, so I finally gritted my teeth and stood with my face pressed against the huge window.

The red-white-and blue of the Delta airlines hove into view and the huge plane slowly meandered across the field towards us. At long last the passengers came up the ramp, greeting loved ones. My heart was pounding and my mouth was dry. Had she run out of gas? Had she made it.

And then — there she was! Tall and slim and blond, running towards us.

"Well, I see you didn't run out of gas," her father said.

"Yeah, we did. I hitchhiked to the airport!" Her merry laugh rang out and she shot a sideways glance at me. But I didn't care, she was here, and there weren't 2,000 miles between us with only a voice rippling over the wires setting my nerves tingling.

"You shouldn't do that to your mother," her father said, grabbing her arm. "She's lost her sense of humor."

Trudging along behind them I thought about that and I knew there wasn't much I could do about it until I let the kid be 19-years-old in my thoughts and my heart.

"Maybe I should have another baby," I thought. And that is when I knew my sense of humor hadn't left me, because I laughed all the way to the car. A grandmother has to have a sense of humor to think that way and I fell asleep on the way home.

On the brighter side

A column on columnists

By JIM BRADLEY

One of the joys of writing a weekly column is hearing all the nice comments, (and an occasional uncomplimentary one) from those who read it regularly.

But whether the remarks are supportive or not, you appreciate every one of them because it shows one thing — your column is being read. And I count myself very fortunate.

Because if I can take people at their word — and I have no reason whatsoever not to — I have some pretty influential people who like my writing. And that's nice, and also humbling at the same time. It makes me keenly aware of my privilege and responsibility in occupying valuable space on the feature page of these newspapers.

This column appears in Associated Newspapers' six weeklies, which includes the nine communities of Wayne, Westland, Canton, Inkster, Romulus, Huron Township, Belleville and Sumpter and Van Buren townships. I have a host of friends in these communities and it is one of the most satisfying parts of being a newspaperman. I treasure my friendship with people very highly, even though we may not be able to see each other for months or a year at a time.

However, there is one way of keeping in touch — and that is through this column. I've written a weekly column for these papers from 1966 through 1970 and then rejoined this chain in June 1976 to continue expressing my thoughts. Some thoughts were serious, many were light-hearted (some thought light-headed) but through it all, it's been a very gratifying experience.

There was a recent span of several months when I did not write a column and many told me how much they missed it. In fact, I've had many requests about my column (but I decided to start writing it again anyway).

Hardly a day goes by that someone doesn't express kind words about my efforts. Let's face it, praise is nice, but that's not the reason I write. I write because I try to have something to say. There is a big difference. Some write because they're trying to say something — others write because they have something to say. There may not seem to be a difference, but believe me, there is.

One person who has "something to say" is Bill Stottlemeyer, postmaster for Wayne-Westland. Bill has been around these parts for a long time (would you believe long, long time?) Well, he stopped by my desk the other day and said some kind words about last week's column, entitled: "The Ideal Wife."

Bill is no slouch as a writer himself. The former Wayne Councilman wrote a free-verse composition in 1967 that appeared in the Associated Newspapers and also was read into the U.S. Congressional Record by Congressman William Ford (D-15th).

Entitled "Ingredients To Make A Man," here is Bill's own version of how a boy develops into a man. It was appropriate in 1967 and it is appropriate now in light of the current crisis in Iran and Afghanistan that has rekindled patriotism in our country.

"Ingredients To Make A Man"

"One boy, one girl, add love, joy, worry, laughter, compassion, happiness, sadness and you get a baby boy.

Add love, a bath, some shots, warm clothing, good food, toys and love.

Tickle his toes, pinch his nose, teach him to stand, buy some shoes, and love.

Fix his toys, bat a ball, bandage a cut, paddle his butt, wipe his nose, and love.

This is red-green-yellow-blue, this is right, that is wrong, yes and no.

Wash his face, comb his hair, larger shoes and love.

Add understanding, companionship, friendship, a little smile and love.

Teach him to be humble, and to be bold.

Take him to church, send him to school, add girls, long talks, larger shoes and love.

Freedom, loyalty, honesty, kindness, a prayer and love.

Place in the right environment for 16 to 20 years.

Now sit back and watch, have you made a man?

Does he have wisdom, or does he talk before he knows what's he's talking about?

Does he have faith, not only in the Lord, but in his fellow man?

Is he honest and sincere? Will he return a wallet he found, or tell the truth even if it hurts a friend?

Does he keep himself respectable, or does he sit in the street, burning his draft card or the American Flag because he can't think of something constructive to do?

Does he try to build, or does he try to tear down?

Is he loyal to his country and President, or does he damn them?

Does he have character or is he a character?

Is he willing to fight for his children's future freedom or is he a frightened child that thinks only of himself?

If you have left out any of the ingredients, it will show, and you don't have a man, you still have a baby boy."

Prep tankers set for WW invitational

Unbeaten Belleville, Cherry Hill are favored to win titles

Undefeated and fifth-ranked Class A swim power Belleville and unbeaten Cherry Hill figure prominently to win their respective divisions of the 1980 Western Wayne Invitational Swimming & Diving Championships.

The championships will get underway on Friday at Wayne Memorial and Westland John Glenn. The finals will be held on Saturday.

"Belleville, I feel, is in a class by itself this season," said Wayne Memorial Coach Jim McPartlin who will host the Blue Division teams. "They are undefeated and are ranked among the top teams in the state this year."

In the Blue Division, along with the favorite and the host, are pitted teams representing Plymouth Salem, Plymouth Canton, Livonia Franklin, Stevenson and Bentley. Bentley, the defending Suburban 8 Conference co-champ lost its first conference dual meet of the season last week to Belleville (see related story), while Wayne will carry a perfect 4-0 Great Lakes 8 Conference record into the war for the precious medals.

Meanwhile, over at Westland John Glenn, Cherry Hill will have to stop Annapolis, Garden City East, Garden City West, Dearborn Heights Robichaud, Livonia Churchill and the host, Glenn, if the Spartans desire the prestigious title.

Fans also will see some of the finest young prep swimmers in the state at the invitational. Among those talented athletes who will compete are Canton's Paul Peterson, a two event state champ who over the weekend captured the 100-yard breaststroke at the Detroit News' Invitational held at Schoolcraft College.

Also on hand will be Franklin's Tim Weber who finished among the top 12 at Schoolcraft in the 50-and-100 yard freestyle.

Belleville's medley relay team earned a silver medal at the News' meet while diver Pat McClelland wound up with a fourth place medal.

"We have an interesting format for the Western Wayne," pointed out McPartlin. "The last three finishers in the Blue Division will exchange places with the top three teams in the white Division."

"Therefore not only individual honors at stake, but team prestige as well," McPartlin added.

There is a 50 cents admission charge for the 4 p.m. Friday preliminaries, while fans will have to pay a $1.50 to attend the 2 p.m. finals on Saturday at Wayne High.

Glenn will carry an impressive 8-1 (Continued on Page B-3)

The Sports Meridian

From Iwo Jima to boxing

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

There are still a few of us around who remember World War II. And few, if any, who have seen the awe-inspiring photo by Joe Rosenthal showing battle-worn GI's hoisting the flag on a cliff in Iwo Jima will ever forget that scene.

That victory was a crucial point in the war of the Pacific. The war and the battles have a special meaning for Russ Gilbert who has been fighting most of his 60 years.

"We were there," Gilbert said by telephone yesterday. "The guys that actually hoisted the flag were from Company C. I was in Platoon A and only six of the 72 men in that platoon survived."

Gilbert didn't call to recall that war or the battles, but the former U.S. Marine boxing champ wanted to remind us of the Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament that Westland will soon be hosting.

Westland has been designated as the host city for the semi-final round for that prestigious tournament which has produced some of the finest boxers in U.S. and world history.

Gilbert is the supervisor for the boxing program in Westland and Garden City. He began his boxing career back in 1935 in southwest Detroit in the CYO program and went on to place second in both lightweight and welterweight competition.

Russ's boxing career was interrupted by World War II, and, while fighting Japs he also had time to pick up the light middleweight division title in the Fifth Marines' Division.

"Boxing is returning to the prominence it so highly deserves," Gilbert said. "For a long time, because of TV over-exposure, the sport was left in limbo."

"Now thanks to guys like Tommy Hearns and Mickey Goodwin, and a flock of others, we're seeing a resurgence," Gilbert added.

The tournament at the Melvin Bailey Recreation Center will include a 15-bout program on March 1 and the winners will advance to the Southeastern Michigan and Detroit area. The Golden Gloves finals will be staged on March 22 at Cobo Hall.

Hearns and Goodwin may appear in Westland to officiate some of the matches, Gilbert pointed out. "If we can get clearances for them from the state boxing commission."

The area will be represented in the semi-finals by a couple of title hopefuls — Kevin Todoroff, a 156-pounder who hails from Garden City; Gaylord Downer, a 147-pounder out of Westland; the two Malin brothers — Jay and Tom from Canton but who train in bwestland.

If you're interested in tickets or further information, you can contact Gilbert at the recreation offices at 729-4560.

Can't believe the rumor I heard over the telephone the other day. And, because there was "no comment" from the Michigan High School Athletic Association, there is no way to confirm or deny it.

Seems that the MHSAA, that august body which controls prep sports in the state, has issued a warning to its members. It wants coaches who have been vocal about poor officiating to "cool it" or suffer the consequences.

What those consequences are, we don't know.

And the MHSAA doesn't want these coaches sounding off to the media.

Sounds like a touch of the Ayatollah Khomeini.

Salem wrestlers undefeated

Unbeaten Plymouth Salem will place a 12-0 dual meet record on the block when Coach Ron Krueger's Rocks march into Trenton Thursday night.

Trenton is the only league team that could ruin Salem's plans of claiming the Suburban 8 Conference championship outright.

"Trenton has the manpower," said Krueger whose Rocks have been tough this year. "A victory over Trenton would definitely put us in the driver's seat."

Salem routed Livonia Bentley 72-2 in an out-of-conference affair and disposed of North Farmington 46-12, then turned back Howell 63-6 before licking Walled Lake Western, 50-3, for its 12th successive victory of the campaign.

Trenton will host the Suburban 8 Conference championships on Saturday. The league has six teams competing this year — Redford Union has defected to the Northwest Suburban and Allen Park has dropped out until Spring.

Good test for Eagles

King invades Romulus

How good is Romulus High's cage team? Eagle Coach Rod Hanna will probably find out Friday night when a highly-touted Martin Luther King quintet out of Detroit invades Romulus.

"At one time they were rated in the state," Coach Hanna said. "I feel that they are among the top four teams in the tough Detroit league."

King is led by Derrick Gervin, a 6-5, 190-pound senior who switches from forward to center when strategy calls for it. The Detroiters also have a front line made up of a pair of 6-5 cagers.

Going into the week, Romulus carried a 9-2 record after rallying to a 74-57 victory over Cherry Hill last Tuesday. (The Eagles were scheduled to travel to Marysville last night.)

Close for three periods, Romulus managed to shake off the pesky Spartans with a 23-10 scoring edge in the final period. Romulus was ahead 12-10 at the end of the first eight minutes, and increased that advantage to 36-27 for two periods.

Trailing by five, 51-47, heading into the final frame, Cherry Hill came within one of catching the Eagles when Darryl Lewis came up with a key block that erased a Spartan layup.

"The momentum seemed to shift after that blocked shot," said Cherry Hill Coach Dave Bogataj. "Romulus just took off after that."

Lewis sank seven of his game high 18 points in the final period, while teammates Stacy Shreve chipped in six of his 16 as did Dave Holfield who wound up with 17 points. Dave Casey, Romulus' lanky pivotman, hauled in 16 rebounds and contributed 12 points.

Cherry Hill received an outstanding performance from junior guard Greg Thompson who split 30 points evenly with Andy Simmons.

"I thought we played a good game," Coach Hanna said. "We got control of the boards in the fourth period and that helped us get our fast break going."

Tigers tripped, 52-50

Another heartbreaker for Belleville

Although he isn't looking for it, Tiger fans should send Coach Tom Niemi and his Belleville cagers a stack of "sympathy cards."

Niemi also has within five points of knocking off Plymouth Salem, the undefeated Suburban 8 Conference cage leader, and Livonia Bentley, in a span of one week.

Belleville also has dropped an overtime — make that double overtime — decision to Edsel Ford. "I know people are surprised by the improvement of this team," Niemi said, "but these kids have been working hard and no one — and I'll repeat — no one ever will take us for granted."

"However, it's unfortunate and a bit discouraging that we are not being rewarded by any victories," Niemi added.

Salem sneaked past Belleville 49-46 to keep its unbeaten Suburban 8 Conference record intact, while Bentley was locked in a duel for title survival and pulled out a harrowing 52-50 decision in the last seconds. Bentley pulled out of its nosedive thanks to some phenomenal foul shooting in the last period. The Bulldogs made a fantastic 12-of-12 at the line. For the evening, Bentley capitalized on 18-of-22 charities.

Low-scoring the first eight minutes, Bentley emerged on top of a 6-4 lead and held a 21-18 advantage at halftime. Bentley outscored the Tigers 12-11 in the third period, but Belleville, fired up by Glenn Johnson, who scored all of his team points in the fourth period, came within a basket of destroying the Livonians' dream.

Johnson was one of three Belleville players who reached double figures. He was joined by Jeff Patterson who had 13 and Charlie Blackmon who contributed 12 points.

"I felt we played superb defense against them," Niemi noted. "I'd have to say that Bentley's clutch free throw shooting saved them."

5 in a row for Wayne

Five consecutive victories have moved Wayne Memorial into the thick of the Great Lakes 8 Conference title race.

Wayne, after an impressive 71-65 triumph over Taylor Center Friday night, coupled with Fordson's overtime loss to Monroe, is within two games of catching the frontrunner, Monroe (8-1) and only one of reaching Fordson (8-2).

And Coach Steve Schwartz'

Zebras had a date Tuesday night to meet the Tractors. They will host Lincoln Park Friday night.

"We meet both of the frontrunners," Schwartz said, "therefore, we still have a chance at the title. But we have to beat Fordson to remain in the race."

Wayne has been playing outstanding ball for the past 2½ weeks, according to the Wayne coach. "It all started after our horrendous performance at Ypsilanti. We talked it over with the players and we realized that it was 'now-or-never'."

"Also, each week someone seems to come through for us," Schwartz added.

Against Taylor, it was Paul Fluegel who came off the bench and pumped in five of his 10 points in the second period, to fire up Wayne. Wayne trailed 14-11 after the first eight minutes, then went ahead 33-29 at halftime.

Wayne outscored their rivals 19-15 in the third period and held on to their slim lead the rest of the way. Fluegel not only contributed 10 points but he also stopped the Rams' 6-6 center, Jim Schafranek who collected three quick charging fouls on the Wayne cager.

Wayne also managed to sink 55 percent of its shots from the floor, hitting on 22 of 40 attempts. The Zebras capitalized on 27-of-37 at the foul line. Taylor was good on 22-of-50 from the field and 21 of 28 at the line.

In an out-of-league encounter, East proved to be no match for Wayne which buried Coach Mike Riley's Panthers 72-42 behind a balanced scoring attack.

Westlanders slip, 64-55

North is too much for Glenn

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

North Farmington rode a strong second half scoring binge to defeat John Glenn Friday night, 64-55, and remain in the Northwest Suburban League title race.

Led by 6-foot-6 center Brian Bowditch, the Raiders ran their record to 4-2 in conference play, just one game behind Livonia Franklin, a 63-53 winner over Redford Union.

After trailing 12-10 after eight minutes, North edged in front 29-25 at halftime as Bowditch sank four consecutive free throws.

Bowditch dominated play in the third quarter, racking up two 3-point plays and scoring nine points in leading the Raiders to a precarious 47-37 lead. His dominance on the backboards carried over during the final period as North led 61-47 with 2:15 left in the game before settling for the final margin.

Bowditch led the Raiders in scoring with 18 points, while floor general Rich Nutter tossed in 17 and Matt Ruud added 12. Glenn was led by guard Ken Liedel, who drilled in 18 points from the top of the key area. He was the only Rocket in double figures as Glenn dropped to 2-4 in NSL play and 6-8 overall.

"We had another flat third period and that was our downfall," said Glenn Coach Dan Henry after the game. "For some reason, we had played poorly in the third quarter of most of our games and I can't put my finger on the reason. The boys come out fired up and with a good attitude after our halftime discussion, but maybe they are trying too hard."

Glenn's players did hustle — but North's superior height advantage allowed the Rockets only one shot most of the time and Bowditch, called the best "big man" in the Northwest Suburban League, was the main reason.

"I think Bowditch is without a doubt the best big man in our league, and North has probably the most talent of any team in our conference," first-year coach Henry said Friday.

The Rockets found smoother sailing against Clarenceville last week in drubbing their visitors, 66-51, in a "laugher."

Double trouble

Crestwood jolts Spartans

Cherry Hill, the defending Tri-River Conference cage champs, began the second round of league competition the way it began the first — with a loss to Dearborn Heights Crestwood.

But the 53-50 setback at the hands of the Dearborn Heights cagers may cost Coach Dick Bogataj and the Spartans the championship.

"There's no doubt about it, we're in trouble," Bogataj said. "We now have to rely upon others beating Crestwood, while we can't afford to lose a game."

"We have our backs pinned to the wall," Bogataj added as he searched for an explanation for the defeat.

Ranked in the top 10 before falling to Crestwood, Cherry Hill blew a 24-17 halftime lead as the Chargers came out and scored the first nine points of the third period. The visitors grabbed a 37-30 advantage for three periods and held on the rest of the way despite frantic attempts by the champs to catch up.

"I really don't know what happened to us," Bogataj said. "We were flat in the second half. At one time I thought I better return to the lockerroom to see if I didn't leave my team there."

Center Aaron Gregory and junior guard Greg Thompson paced the Spartans with 19 and 14 points, respectively, while Crestwood got an excellent over-all performance from Keith Rogers and Gary Wayne who contributed 15 and 13 points toward the Charger victory.

Cherry Hill will attempt to get back on the title trail on Friday when the Spartans travel to Southgate Schafer. Crestwood and Melvindale presently share the top billing. Each has won six of eight conference games.

Baseball umpires wanted

Inkster Athletic Officials Association is seeking baseball and softball umpires for the coming 1980 season.

Qualified or trained umpires should contact Booker Dozier, secretary of the IAOA at 562-6174, after 6 p.m. during weekends.

All potential umpires will have to attend training sessions and seminars which will be held in March. Men and women, ages 18 and up, are invited to participate in the programs.

What goes up...

Robichaud's Kevin Packer (12) flies high and dunks it Friday night against arch-rival Inkster while Viking Marcus Beeman (22) stands by. Although Packer contributed 13 points, it wasn't enough. Inkster avenged an earlier setback to the Bulldogs and won a 59-57 close decision. It was the first Suburban Athletic Conference triumph for rookie Coach Sherman Grant whose cagers meet top-ranked Class B state power, Willow Run, Friday night. Photo by Reggie Bradley.

Franklin cagers avenge R.U. loss

Outscoring Redford Union 21-6 in the final period, league-leading Livonia Franklin won a key Northwest Suburban Conference basketball rematch, 63-53, Friday night to tighten its hold on first place.

The victory also avenged a controversial loss to R.U. earlier in the season.

"It was a close game and not our best shooting game," said Franklin coach Jim McIntyre, "but I felt we played an excellent second half. We came out tight in the first half and consequently the ball just wouldn't fall into the bucket."

R.U. took a first period lead 16-13 and widened the margin to 34-26 at halftime before the Patriots shot back and outscored their visitors 16-13 and 21-6 in the final two periods.

All five Franklin starters hit in double figures with Jeff Weber's 15 points standing up as the game high. Weber also nailed down 15 rebounds. Jon McCarthy picked up 13 points, while Tim Przysiecki and Doug White each pumped in 11. Bob Gohl contributed 10 points. The Patriots also received a hefty 29 (of 39) points from the free throw line where Redford Union canned 11 of 19.

Franklin will bring a 5-1 won-lost conference record to Westland John Glenn Friday night. The Pats have a one-game edge on North Farmington which is seated in second place with a 4-2 mark.

A smashing hit

Undefeated on the season and sporting an 8-0 Great Lakes 8 Conference record, Wayne Memorial chalked up an impressive victory at the Fifth Annual Plymouth-Canton Invitational for their second major volleyball tournament title of the season. Members of the team include: Sharon Fontaine, co-captain (front row, from left) and Debbie Mazurek; second row are Tina Russell, Pam Matyjasik, Carol Stocchi and Lynn Underwood; third row are student-manager Paul Marithew, Deanna Leverenz, Dottie Ali, Cheryl Trudell, Kelly Reinink and Coach Doris Busuito.

Glenn dunks R.U.

Westland John Glenn served notice in the form of a 93-76 victory over Redford Union that it has its sights set on the 1980 Northwest Suburban Conference swim crown.

Taking only four out of a possible 11 events, the Westlanders showed that they have the depth to compete against any would-be title hopeful.

"It's our depth that has been paying off for us," said Coach Jim Lawrence who will send his troops into battle at home Thursday night at 7 against Garden City East before competing in the Western Wayne Invitational.

"We don't have the frontrunners, but everyone is contributing," Lawrence added.

Earlier in the week, Glenn turned back Garden City West 93-78 in an out-of-league dual meet. Doug White, who finished third in the 200-yard individual medley, turned in an impressive 2:19.9. It was White's first appearance in that event.

Wayne volleyballers add Plymouth title to record

After two major tournaments and 10 confrontations in and out of their league, Wayne Memorial has shown it has the girls' volleyball team to beat in the area.

Coach Doris Busuito's club came from behind to throttle Livonia Bentley in a pair of sets to chalk up their second invitational championship of the current campaign.

Wayne ruled the Fifth Annual Plymouth-Canton tournament by edging Bentley 17-15 in the first set, then polishing off the Bulldogs 15-5 in the finale for the championship trophy.

Earlier in the season, Wayne won the Schoolcraft College Invitational.

"Our kids were super," said Coach Busuito whose team is sporting an 8-0 Great Lakes 8 Conference record and an untarnished 10-0 over-all mark. "We were down 11-3 against Bentley in the first set and fought back to win it."

For their heroics, Wayne's co-captain Sharon Fontaine was selected as the Most Valuable Player and also earned a berth on the all-tournament team. Teammates Debbie Mazurek and Dottie Ali also were honored on that team.

"I would also like to point out that Deanna Leverenz was probably one of the most underestimated players in the tournament," the Wayne coach said. "She came up with key points and people just don't realize how good of a player she is."

Wayne launched its title bid by destroying Berkley 15-5 and 15-7 in the first round, then they dumped North Farmington 15-9 and 15-8. Wayne also erased Churchill (15-5, 15-7) before ousting Waterford Mott (15-4, 15-4) and Brighton (15-4, 15-6).

In the quarterfinals, Wayne handled Livonia Stevenson 15-10 and 15-6 to advance to the semi-finals where arch-rivals, John Glenn, was waiting. The Zebras won the first set 15-5 and whipped the Rockets 15-2 to get a shot at Bentley for the championship.

dual meet record into the invitational and Coach Jim Lawrence figures his Rockets "will have to score three or four swimmers to catch Cherry Hill."

"Cherry Hill is definitely the favored," Lawrence stressed, "and the only way we could upset their appecart is our depth. They have the frontrunners but we do have the numbers."

At Glenn, the competition will get underway at 1:15 p.m. Friday with the diving preliminaries. At 4:15, the swimmers begin their qualifying rounds. The finals are set for 2 p.m. on Saturday.

Students also will have to fork out 50 cents for the preliminaries. It's $1 to watch for finals at Glenn.

Richard-Ray rite held at Methodist Church

An early evening candlelight ceremony at the First United Methodist Church of Belleville recently united Vicki Jo Ray and Christopher Joel Richard in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe D. Ray of Belleville, while the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chet Richard of Owosso, Mich.

The Rev. Joy E. Arthur officiated the ceremony, which included the reading of Corinthians XIII and the lighting of the wedding candle. Craig Richard, brother of the groom, sang a song he composed himself for the occasion. Maxine Miller, a longtime friend of the Ray family, was organist for the wedding.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a candlelight colored gown and fingertip veil of her own design. French lace covered the gown's empire bodice, which include a Queen Anne neckline with sheer lace collar, shoulders and long fitted sleeves. The smoothly silhouetted dress was finished at the hem with a scalloped lace trim. A Juliet cap of satin and matching lace held her veil in place.

A bridal bouquet of red roses, stephanotis and baby's breath completed the bride's ensemble.

The bride also had the traditional good luck penny in her shoe. The penny was the same one her mother used on her wedding day more than 29 years ago.

The bride asked her sister, Lisa, to serve as maid of honor for the ceremony. She wore a cranberry colored gown, with slit sleeves, a rounded neckline and slightly dropped back. A chiffon overlay on the skirt and bodice created a blouson with a peplum effect.

The bridesmaids were Carol Richard of Owosso, sister of the groom, and Karen Warner of Chicago, Ill., the bride's University of Michigan roommate. Their gowns matched the attire worn by the honor attendant.

The groom asked Bob McClish of Ann Arbor, a mutual friend of the bride and groom, to be best man. The ushers were Curt and Craig Richard, brothers of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a flowing dusty rose colored gown for the ceremony, while Mrs. Richard chose a long-sleeved, tailored gown in a teal blue shade. Their corsages were of phalenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

A dinner buffet and reception for the newlyweds was held at Roma's of Ann Arbor, with friends and relatives from Tennessee, Alabama, California and Illinois attending.

The new Mrs. Richard is a 1975 graduate of the University of Michigan. Her husband is a 1974 graduate of Michigan State University.

The couple now is living in Kalamazoo, where he is reprographic manager at Kal Blue. She previously was editor of "New Health," a nursing publication in the San Diego and Los Angeles counties of California, but currently is employed as a 12-state area representative for Upjohn Home Health Services, based in Kalamazoo.

2 couples set alter dates

St. Paul's Lutheran Church of New Boston has been reserved for the Aug. 2 wedding of Susan Morris of Tampa, Fla., and Ralph McInnis of Bradenton, Fla.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Morris of Huron River Drive, Romulus. A 1974 graduate of Romulus Senior High School, she also graduated from the University of South Florida, located in Tampa, in 1978. She currently is employed as a school social worker with the Hillsborough County Schools in Tampa.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence McInnis of Bradenton, Fla. A 1978 graduate of the University of South Florida, he is employed by Consolidated Electric Supply in Bradenton.

Serves show stopper wheat germ dessert

Show stopper

This show stopping dessert made with wheat germ, is designed for a memorable occasion. Fortunately, the glamorous creation is a make ahead that has unusual flavoring and textural contrasts. The frozen soufflé gets its fluffiness and volume from beaten egg whites and whipped cream and its intriguing flavor from amaretto.

It's no surprise to find wheat germ in beautiful desserts. After all, wheat germ is known as the beautiful food.

The nutrient content of protein, vitamins and minerals in wheat germ helps to provide the health and vitality that makes you look and feel your best. The convenience of using wheat germ is beautiful, too. It comes in two delicious flavors — regular and sugar and honey. Both varieties are lightly toasted to enhance their wonderful grainy texture. They are carefully packed in vacuum sealed jars to preserve the aromatic fresh flavor. After opening a jar of wheat germ, you can protect its freshness by storing in the refrigerator.

This show stopping dessert made with wheat germ is designed for a memorable occasion. Fortunately, the glamorous creation, which delights both eye and palate, is a make ahead. Kretschmer Kitchens developed the recipe so it can be made with either regular wheat germ or sugar and honey wheat germ.

A handsome choice for special celebrations, dinner parties and other festive gatherings, the frozen soufflé is easy to put together. The tingly coldness is especially refreshing at the end of a leisurely meal. The unusual flavoring and textural contrasts are noteworthy in making such an outstanding dessert. As expected, the soufflé gets its volume and fluffiness from beaten egg whites and whipped cream. An intriguing almond flavor is provided by amaretto, the popular after dinner spirit. Wheat germ and chopped maraschino cherries folded into the creamy mixture give interesting texture and flavor accents. The recipe goes together surprisingly fast. Turn into its presentation dish and freeze at least six hours. Decorate before serving and dish out at the table with a long handled fork and spoon.

FROZEN WHEAT GERM AMARETTO SOUFFLE

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 cup water,
- 4 eggs, separated
- 1/2 cup amaretto liqueur
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 1 cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular or sugar & honey
- 2 tbsp. finely chopped maraschino cherries, optional

Combine sugar and water in small saucepan. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer uncovered 3 minutes. Beat egg yolks until light and lemon colored. Gradually beat in hot syrup. Stir in amaretto and vanilla. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Beat cream until stiff. Fold egg whites and whipped cream into egg yolk mixture. Fold in wheat germ and cherries. Turn into 3 or 4 cup soufflé dish with 2-inch collar. Freeze 6 hours or overnight. Decorate as desired with piped on whipped cream, light sprinkling of wheat germ and maraschino cherries. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

DAR chapter picks 'Citizen' candidate

The Daughters of the American Revolution, Ypsilanti Chapter, recently honored the DAR Good Citizens from each of the seven high schools in the area at a tea at the Ladies Literary Club in Ypsilanti.

The students, one from each school, were selected by their peers and faculty on the basis of scholarship, leadership, dependability and patriotism. Each received the Good Citizen pin, a certificate, a small American flag and a plant.

Preceding the program, Judge Ross Campbell of the Washtenaw County Circuit Court presented an illustrated talk on the early history of Washtenaw County.

Local Good Citizens include Martha Ryznar, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ryznar, a senior at Belleville High School. A member of the National Honor Society, Martha participates in many school activities including swimming, marching band, symphony band and musical dramas.

She plays racquetball and tennis and enjoys horseback riding. She plans to continue her education in the field of oceanic science.

Representative from Lincoln High School is Randy Uhl, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Uhl. He was president of both his sophomore and junior classes and serves on the Student Council. A member of the National Honor Society, he also participated in Boy's State as representative of his school.

Randy has contributed much time in serving his community through his United Methodist Church youth group and has been helpful to his parents in their business.

WESTERN

COUNTY

TODAY

Economic outlook and forecast

What it's all about!

It comes as no surprise that the nation-wide downturn in the economy seen during 1979 has been reflected in Western Wayne County too. Building starts are down, development less than last year, and consumer and businessman alike are being cautious as the new year and new decade begin.

But we're not saying that development has stopped. In fact, a drive around the area will show that new buildings are going up, homes and condominiums are being built, and the recession that was expected has yet to have a dramatic effect on the area.

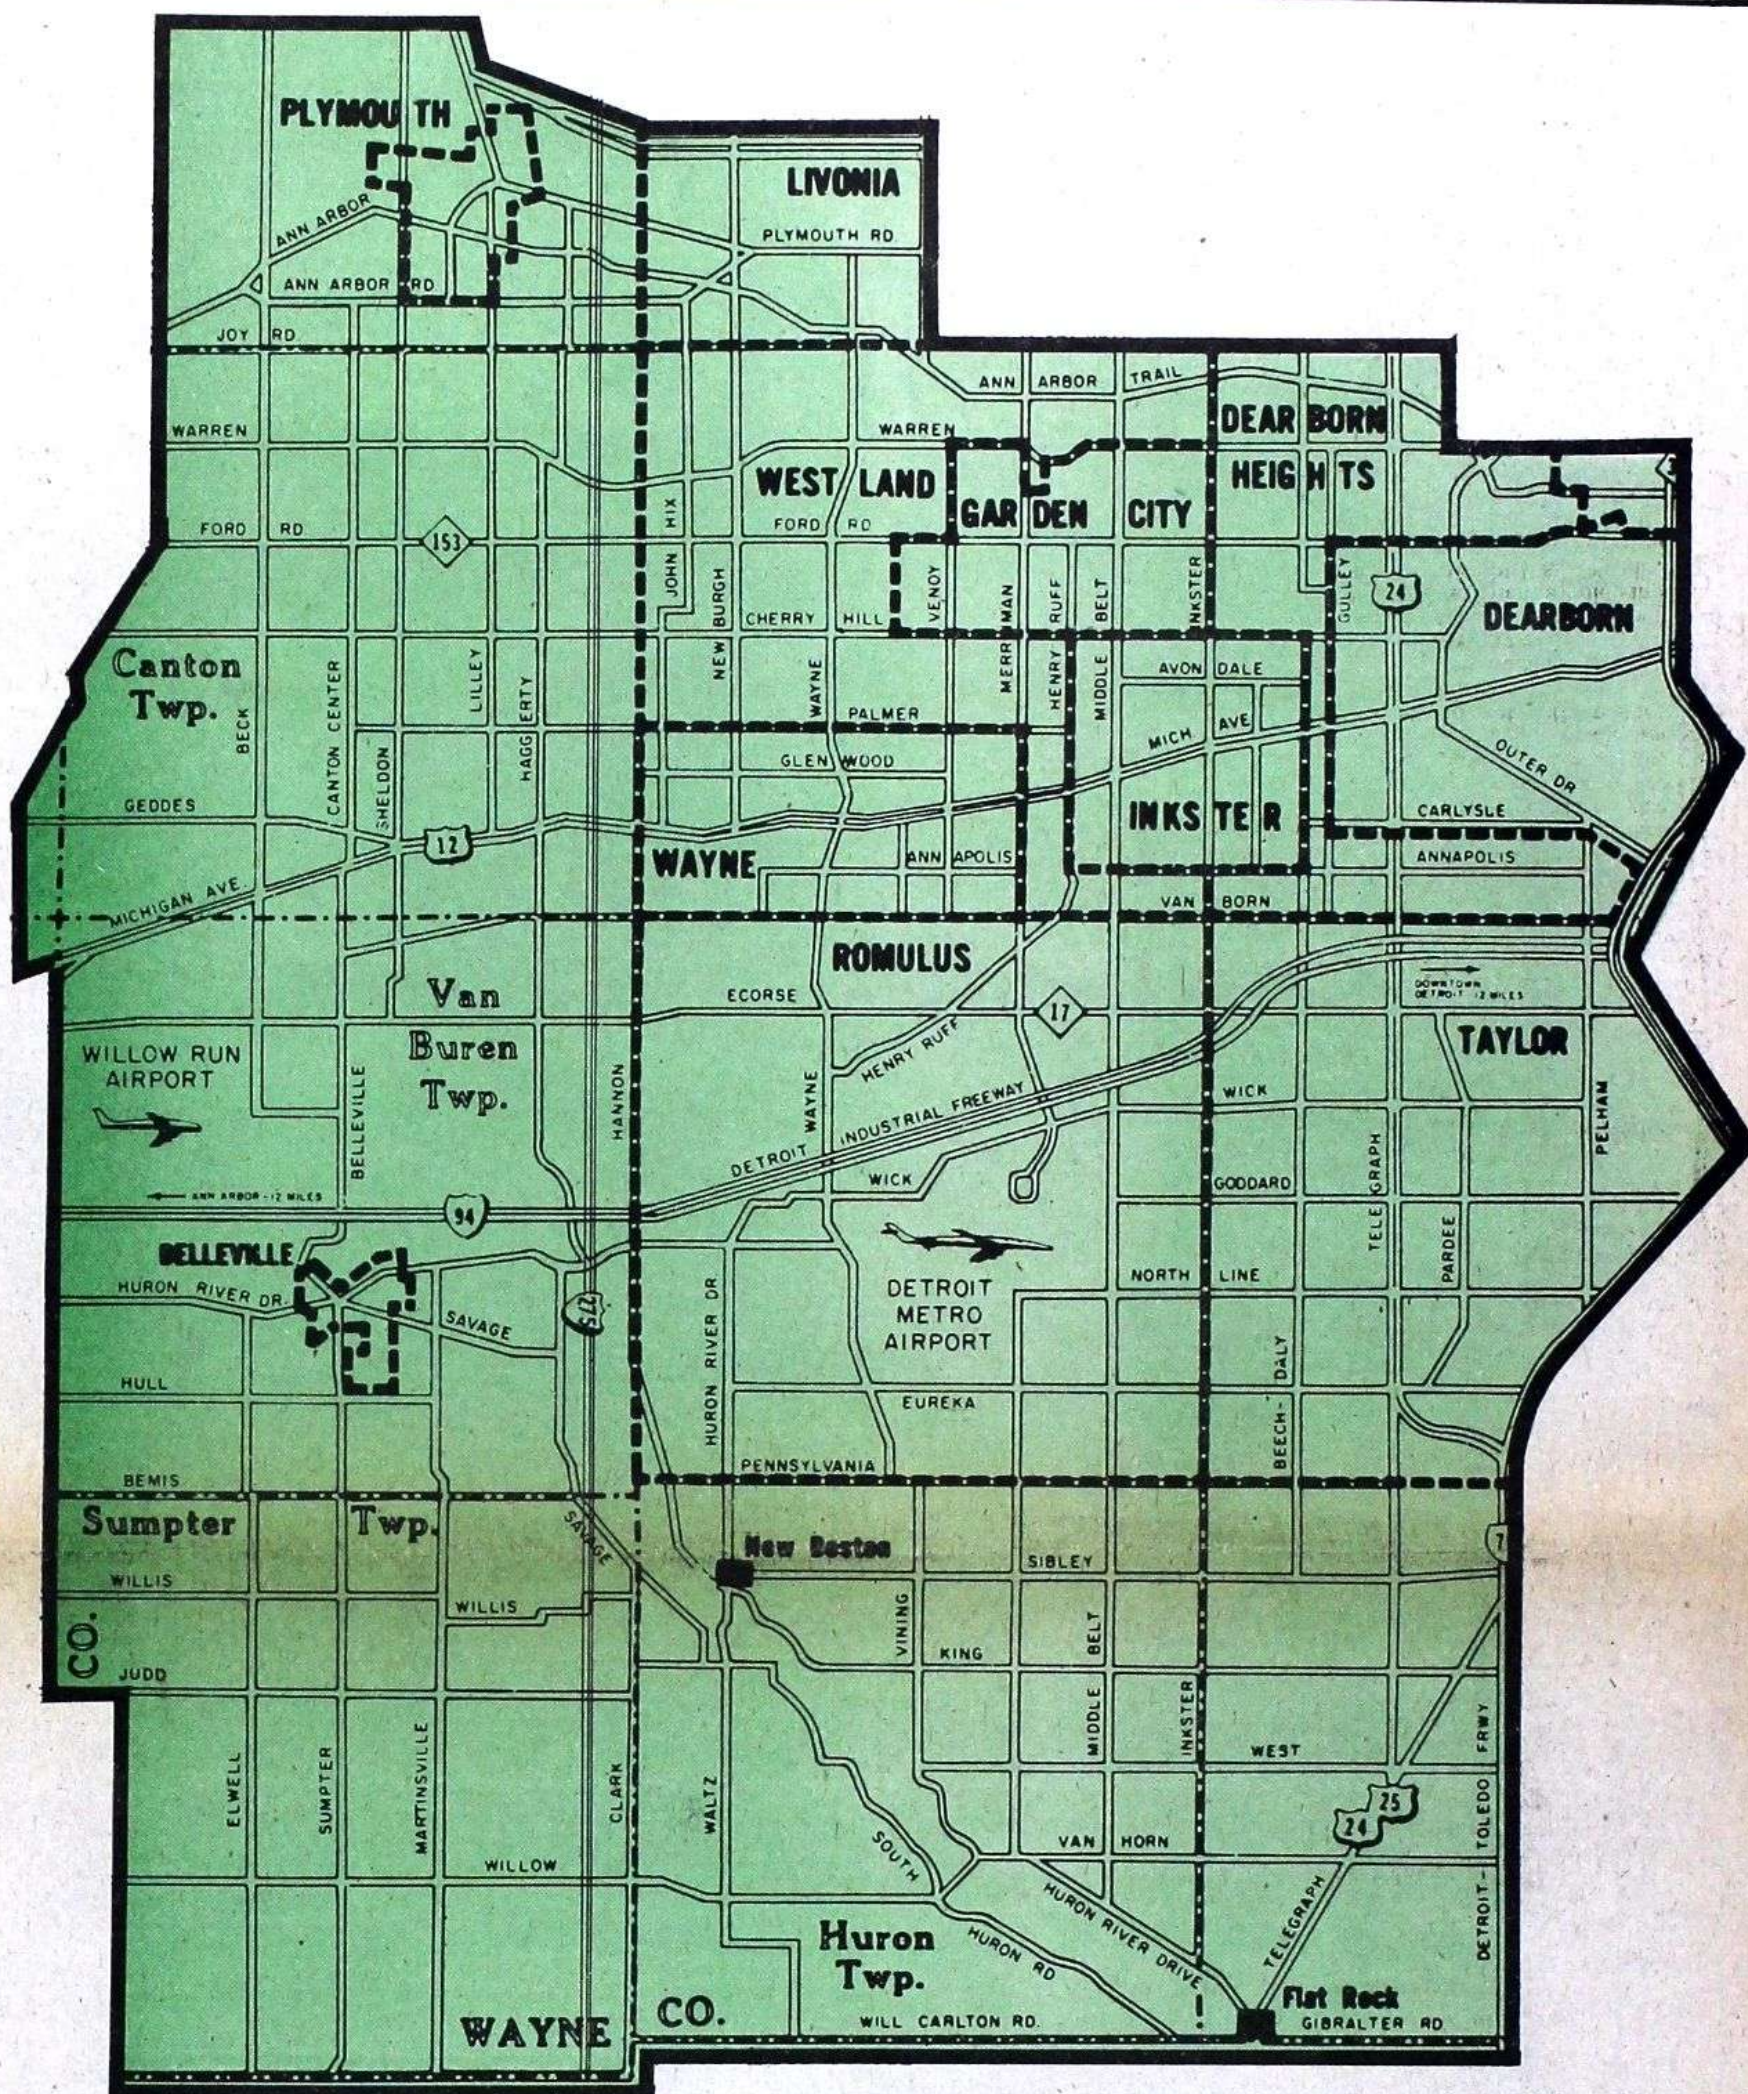

The attitude is for many people "wait and see," as the public and private sector keep an eye on skyrocketing inflation, mortgage interest rates and the uncertainty of world politics.

Associated Newspapers has put a whetted finger in the wind to see what's happened during 1979 and make a prediction on what the future holds for our area in 1980. In the following pages, you'll read the statistics and see the data that shows a bit of a slowdown, but certainly not a stop to continued growth.

In addition to the data about business and industry, we'll be telling you about what's been happening in the public sector, in the governments that handle the taxpayers dollars from these communities.

You'll read the job predictions, from area employers, who are looking at a "shaky" economy, but still optimistic about future prospects.

If attitude can be gauged as a barometer for the future, Western Wayne County shows a positive one, tempered perhaps with a cautious note and a hopeful one.

Ford optimistic for the 1980's

For U.S. automotive manufacturers, 1979 was the fourth best sales year in the history of the U.S. market, but a 10 percent decrease is expected for 1980.

This is the assessment of Philip Caldwell, Ford Motor Company President, in his economic preview for this year. The volume of 10.6 million cars and 3.5 million trucks placed it fourth in all-time sales, but weakening demand and rising concern over the price and availability of gasoline hurt domestic sales profits and employees, Caldwell said.

"In the first quarter of the year, sales were running at a near-record annual rate of 11.5 million cars and 4 million trucks, with large cars selling particularly well. Beginning in the second quarter, however, demand began to soften as real GNP growth slowed and consumer confidence fell off. Compounding this trend was the halt of oil production in Iran last winter. As worldwide supply suddenly diminished, prices rose sharply and gasoline lines appeared around the United States. Sales of larger cars fell, while those of small cars rose. The increase in small-car sales did not offset the decline in large-car sales," he pointed out.

"It is instructive to note that in Europe, where most countries do not have U.S.-style gasoline price controls and allocations, the Iranian oil cutoff had nowhere near so dramatic an impact; the level and mix of automotive sales were much less affected by this year's energy developments."

As for the coming year, uncertainties on the international scene and questions concerning the economy make a precise forecast imprudent. Industry-wide sales in the United States are likely to be below those of 1979 — perhaps by as much as 10 percent, according to Caldwell.

"Despite the unsettled conditions of the moment, we at Ford are hopeful about the years ahead. Cars and trucks remain valued and useful products, and we expect that unit sales in the United States will grow by two percent per year over the coming decade. One uncertainty that has plagued the auto industry in recent years is behind us. It is now clear that in the 1980s American consumers will want and buy smaller, more fuel-efficient cars and trucks.

"Ford is prepared to meet that demand. Already our new cars have an average corporate fuel economy 59 percent higher than in 1975. This year, we at Ford are proud to have the highest projected average passenger car fuel economy — 21.6 mpg — among the three largest U.S. manufacturers, based on press statements. And our Ford Division has the most modern, most fuel-efficient, standard-size pickup truck on the market.

"We have well under way a sweeping program to remake every one of our vehicles and to retool virtually all our plants. During the coming year our capital spending will amount to some $3.5 billion, with $2.4 billion of it on North American programs. During the 1979-1984 period, capital spending at Ford will average about $4 billion a year, about two-thirds of which will be spent in North America.

"We are a large, worldwide company, and we are drawing on our global reservoir of design, technical and financial resources to develop and market the cars and trucks of the 1980s. Next year we will launch an all-new world car, a small car that we believe will be the best of its class in the world. There will be other such cars and trucks in the years that follow.

"In addition to satisfying our customers, these new products will help keep the auto industry at the forefront of the energy-conservation effort. According to Department of Energy projections, automobiles will use 19 percent less fuel in 1985 than in 1975 — the biggest projected reduction of any major U.S. industry or sector.

"Ford's program for the 1980s is a demanding one, and success will depend in part on how government shapes the environment in which our customers live and we do business. There are three important ways in which government could improve our lot and that of the public:

"Stabilize energy supply. To help us and our customers make rational decisions — and to encourage more conservation and energy production — the government should eliminate gasoline allocations, decontrol the prices of gasoline and petroleum, and continue to press for speedy development of synthetic fuels.

"This industry will surmount its present problems. Ford's plans for the eighties are well in place. I am confident that after the immediate bumps in the economy are behind us, consumers will give us a vote of confidence in the new marketplace of the new decade," Caldwell concluded.

NBD renews commitment

By: HARRY L. LAPHAM
Vice President
National Bank of Detroit

The outlook for southwestern Wayne County in 1980 is mixed, but over the long term, this region will remain a center for some of the Detroit area's most dynamic growth.

Most of the factors currently affecting the economic health of this area are similar to those faced by communities across the country.

Optimism expressed in some quarters that the nation's rate of inflation would moderate in 1979 proved unjustified. Real income for the year, after adjusting for effects of inflation, actually declined slightly for many families. Recent steps taken by the Federal Reserve Board and others will probably moderate the inflation rate later in 1980, although it will likely be in the double-digit area most of the year.

On the positive side, the national recession predicted for last year by many observers failed to materialize. The consensus seems to be that the first half of 1980 will see slightly negative economic growth in real terms, with moderate improvement coming in the latter months of the year.

Consumer indebtedness relative to personal income remains near an historical high, while the savings rate is at a 30-year low. This unsettling combination is a major factor in predictions for a continuing slowdown of the economy. In southwestern Wayne County, however, retail sales were fairly strong in 1979, even in the fourth quarter, and we at National Bank of Detroit continued to note expanding customer volume in the region throughout the year.

NBD's experience in southwestern Wayne County with commercial loans has been keyed primarily to smaller commercial and retail businesses, which depend on consumer spending. Despite the projected downturn in consumer expenditures, our commercial lending activity remains strong, climbing 10 percent in 1979 over the 1978 level. This is a good sign for continued economic growth.

Construction activity in this area has slowed as builders feel the pinch of high mortgage rates, but building remains strong relative to other local areas. This is especially true in Canton Township, spurred by the completion of I-275 and highlighted by building along the Ford Road corridor. One reason for this continued activity is that land prices in this area remain attractive.

Long-term residential growth prospects remain excellent, as major highways and freeways are highly accessible in this era of rising transportation costs and employers continue to locate here. Besides Canton Township, significant residential projects are underway in Brownstown Township, Romulus and Westland.

Completion of the "super sewer" project, now delayed, would further enhance the region's growth prospects.

Southwestern Wayne County continues to be linked closely to the automotive industry, and any sustained downturn in sales would impair the area's employment prospects. However, operations remain stable at the General Motors Hydramatic plant, the Romulus diesel plant and the Ford truck plant. The truck plant, in fact, recently completed a $1.2 million expansion project.

Current projects creating jobs include Detroit Edison's building of a regional center in Van Buren Township that will employ about 500 and Detroit Diesel Allison's continuing expansion of its Romulus industrial complex. Eventually that plant will employ over 1,000 people.

NBD expressed its commitment to the growth of this area in 1979 through the construction of a new branch in Brownstown Township and renovation of our Garden City office drive-in facilities. We are currently doing a complete renovation of our Dearborn Heights office, including drive-in facilities.

We have also had excellent customer and employee response to our Computer Response Inquiry System (CRIS), an on-line teller terminal system installed to improve customer service.

There is much that southwestern Wayne County can be optimistic about in 1980 despite the current softness in the national economy. For the years ahead, residents have genuine cause for enthusiasm about our area's growth prospects.

Economy to pick up steam

By George B. Smith

Don't look for cheaper housing in the 1980's. Living units are going to stay scarce and get more and more expensive through the decade.

This prediction is based upon the opinion that the economy will grow faster in the next decade than it did in the past 25 years and therefore, potential home purchasers will have incomes to bid up the price of housing.

In addition, 30 million new units will be required to replace homes deemed unfit for human habitation and to meet the needs of the "War Baby" boom which will be increasing family formations at a record rate.

New home construction is lagging behind and has been unable to build more than 1.5 to 2 million units per year when 3 million are needed to satisfy demands.

In 1979, inflation in Michigan ran at a 15 percent a year rate and this alone will cause housing prices to move up at a rapid rate. Labor needs a raise to keep up with inflation, thereby raising the costs of everything which goes into a home, to say nothing of materials. The cost of energy is going up so fast we can't even come up with numbers because it is outdated in a few days. Energy is one of the costliest parts of a home. Lumber must be dried, cement and drywall are heated in a chemical process, roof shingles and plastics are oil by-products, and steel is made by substantial use of heat.

Builders are paying 16 percent to 17 percent interest on construction loans and money costs will be passed on to the home buying consumer, like all costs in the free enterprise system.

The current economic scare in the auto industry is making people cautious about committing themselves to high mortgage payments, but if a homebuyer waits until the auto economic picture improves, they will find themselves in a bidding contest with others for the short supply of available housing.

The moral of this story is to buy a home now, before the costs double as they have in the past 10 years. If you need a home and can afford the payments, now, while the snow is on the ground, is the time to see your REALTOR without delay.

(George B. Smith is President of Ann Arbor Mortgage Corporation and Century 21 Community, Inc., REALTORS, and has 30 years experience in the real estate market in Western Wayne County.)

Canton still leads

Building down sharply in '79

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

The building boom that peaked in 1978 in Canton Township took a sharp downturn in 1979. Although Canton still leads the Western Wayne County communities in single family residential construction, the number has been cut more than half from the year before.

There were 661 building permits issued for single family homes in Canton in 1979, plus 61 multiple family permits (apartments, townhouses). In 1978, the township listed a record 1,577 single family home building permits, plus 240 permits for multiple units.

The area has for the past several years been a mushrooming community with numerous subdivisions sprawling into the once-farmland community. The slowdown in building is generally attributed to the gloomy economic forecasts that have been predicting recession, leaving potential homeowners with fears about buying, and with concerns about interest rates.

Again in 1979 as in 1978, the second community in the Associated Newspapers readership area in terms of residential construction was Westland. Steady home building throughout the year resulted in the issuance of 106 single family building permits, and 132 multiple family permits. There continues to be activity in apartment and condominium building, and future residential subdivision and condominium projects have received city approval and should begin construction in 1980.

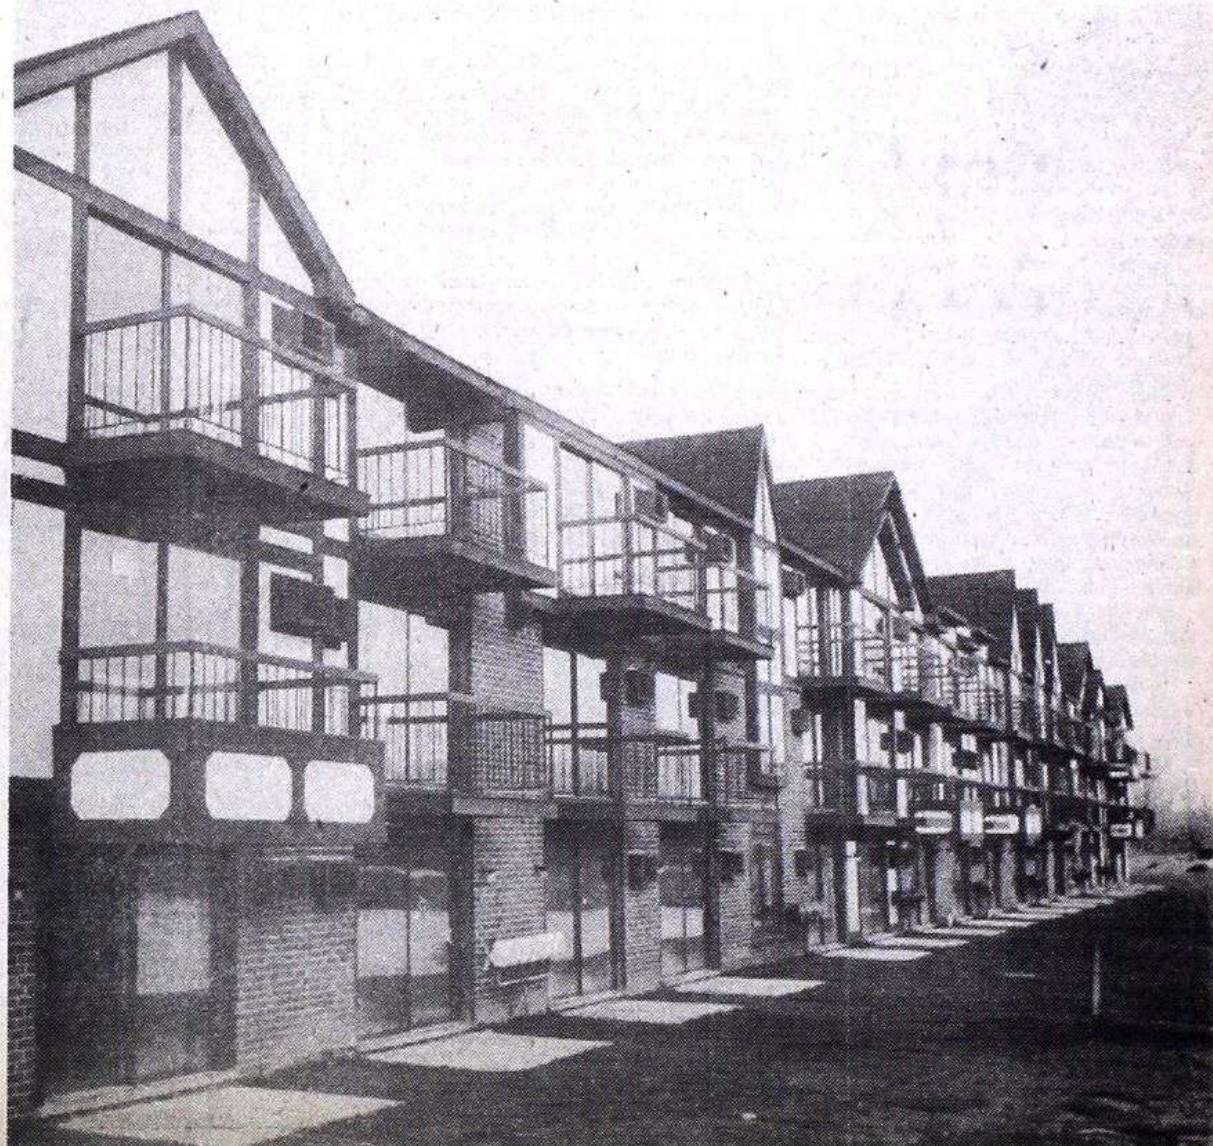

There continued in 1979 in Westland to be a heavy emphasis on rehabilitation work on homes. Through a loan and grant program run by the city, money is being spent to upgrade existing homes to improve the total housing stock of the city, and this program is a major function of the housing and building department.

Van Buren Township saw issuance of 60 building permits, and 226 multiple family permits in 1979, and there, too, other condominium projects are beginning to sprout.

Condominiums as a mode of living are definitely seen as a very viable option to singles and married couples who want to own property but aren't ready or suited for house-buying. Condominium living appears to be making a "comeback."

Romulus city officials noted 57 single family home building permits, and Wayne 16 during 1979. Construction of homes in Belleville and Inkster was minimal, as both communities are older and fairly well-established.

Romulus is area leader in industrial development

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

Although the "grand total" in construction dollars spent in Romulus was down from the year before, the city still rolled up nearly $18 million in commercial and industrial construction in 1979, again leading other communities in Western Wayne County in that type of development.

The list of projects is dotted with million dollar investments, in the heavily industrialized area that has long been a hub of such economic activity and contains the Detroit-Wayne County Metropolitan Airport. Criss-crossed by railway and expressway transportation routes, Romulus is considered a prime area for industrial and commercial location.

Federal Express chose to put a new $12 million building in the city in 1979. The Holiday Inn added to its existing hotel, to the tune of $3.6 million, and Michelin Tire invested $1.5 million in its plant. Although not an industrial project, another big building project is the senior-citizen high-rise being built by North Cranbrook Associates, a $2.3 million building scheduled to be completed next year.

Development at the airport included $1.5 million on the L.C. Smith Terminal, plus another $260,000 for a parking lot.

New buildings included a $388,000 air freight warehouse for Masco Corp., a Burlington-Northern warehouse with an estimated value of $604,000, new Federal Mogul building costing $412,000, and two new warehouses being built by Highland Industrial at a cost of $399,000 each. Other new industries and additions to existing plants accounted for the usual multi-million dollar growth in the city.

Canton Township Planner Jim Kosteva reported that $9 million in industrial value was added in the township during 1979. Accounting for a large part of that figure were: completion of the Grosse Pointe Quality Foods warehouse, Precision Spring, and the township's own new Department of Public Works building. Three new buildings in the Canton Industrial Park have effectively filled that park, he added.

Commercial business began to catch up to residential growth in the township in 1979, with the addition of several restaurants, professional and retail buildings.

The objective for 1980 is to increase industrial development, once the new master plan is approved and new zoning text written, Kosteva added.

To attract industry, goals are to prepare industrial land with such amenities as road paving and utility extension, and make use of tax abatements that encourage expansion and construction of industries.

The City of Westland's Building Department lists nearly $8 million in permits for new commercial and industrial building in the city in 1979, not counting hundreds of thousands of dollars of renovations, additions and remodelings.

Growth was most apparent in the commercial area, with construction of shopping plazas in at least two locations, an $861,000 catalog showroom called Merchandise Service Center, expansion or construction of several professional clinics, a golf range, and remodeling and expansion of a Farmer Jack Supermarket to be located at Ford and Wildwood.

The VFW Bova Post completed its new $182,000 building, two warehouses went into the Cherry Hill Industrial Park, plus construction of mini-warehouses. Just two months ago, building permits were pulled for a warehouse on Ford Road at the airport that is estimated at more than $1 million.

Economic development planners for the City of Westland are particularly pleased with the development of two new industrial parks, in addition to the one already growing steadily at Cherry Hill and Newburgh. Another is being developed at Hix and Ford roads, and already has buildings underway, and a third at Hix Road north of Ford Road, with buildings planned and approved by council.

The City of Wayne records $4.2 million worth of new commercial and industrial activity around two in 1979. Much of the activity centered on additions and remodeling of existing buildings. The Ford Motor Company took out permits for some $340,000 worth of renovation at the two plants within city boundaries. Apollo Expediting put on an $80,000 addition, and Weiser Iron and Metal

Co. added $65,000 to its value. Burroughs took out permits for $70,000 worth of work, and Church's Lumber spent $65,000 on renovations.

Ajax Rolled Ring on Van Born Road spent $950,000 on a large addition, and Browning-Ferris waste management company took out building permits totalling $83,000 in new construction.

Although not falling into commercial or industrial categories, two school district construction activities should be noted in Wayne in 1979. Franklin Junior High School experienced $247,000 worth of construction work, and Wayne Memorial High School spent $1.5 million on a building program.

Van Buren Township totalled up $4.2 million in new commercial and industrial development and additions and alterations to existing buildings in 1979.

Most significant developments begun during the year include a new Wayne County Community College complex at Tyler and Haggerty roads, a million dollar project of Detroit Edison in constructing new regional offices, at least two condominium developments, and addition of a building to the Commerce Park industrial park, plus several restaurant and professional centers.

The biggest construction project in Inkster during 1979 was the beginning of construction of an Army Reserve Center on Beech Daly, a $2 million project. Another notable project was a $320,000 addition to Peterson Machine Products, the building department reports.

Michigan, national indicator indicator

Economy may face mixed reactions in '80

By THEODORE FERRIS

Ferris works for the Michigan Senate Fiscal Agency. Here's his outlook for the year titled "The Economic and Budget Outlook for the State of Michigan: Prospects for Growth in the 1980s." The report was presented to the U of M Economic Outlook Conference.

Just as the U.S. economy has exhibited an uneven growth path as of late, the growth of the Michigan economy has been markedly more jagged.

Depending upon the industrial make-up of a particular state, a period of pronounced economic expansion or an economic recession can have profoundly different impacts nationwide.

As is well documented, recessions tend to postpone and in some cases, eliminate business and consumer spending on "big time" items. Consumer expenditures on durable goods and business fixed investment are the first items to be lopped from budgets in a deteriorating economy.

Thus, states such as Michigan, with an emphasis on durable goods manufacturing are characterized by a "feast of famine" economy.

Predictably, the states hit hardest by national recessions are in an industrial belt consisting of the Great Lake states, the Northeast and the Mid-Atlantic states.

Not only do these states have a preponderance of basic manufacturing activity, they are characterized by older, less efficient plant and equipment as industrial expansion is increasingly concentrated in western and southern states.

Consequently, Michigan is an oft-noted casualty in a recession, and a severe recession such as 1973-75 can lead to "depression-like" developments for this state.

ALL OF THESE prefatory remarks on the relation between the national business cycle and the Michigan economy are by way of saying that the most beneficial factor for the health of the Michigan economy in the next decade will be the relative health and stability of the U.S. economy.

No single other aspect can outweigh the importance of sustained real growth, since to a large measure, sustainable and significant real growth can not take place without Michigan partaking of its fruits.

To dramatize this point, consider the wide difference in real economic growth we experienced in the past two decades.

The 60s were marked by an unprecedented 105 month expansion from 1961 to 1969 while the 70s, as previously noted, will have witnessed three recessions for Michigan, including the most severe economic downturn in nearly half a century.

The significance for Michigan of this variance in national growth is well summarized by data for average real weekly earnings in manufacturing, real wages and salaries, and wage and salary employment.

The lack of significant real growth in the '70s also impacted heavily on the characteristics of wage and salary employment in Michigan.

During the '60s, shares of employment by board industrial classification remained relatively constant.

Over the last decade, however, major shifts have taken place. Manufacturing employment's share of the total has fallen a whopping 8 percent, while transportation, communications and utilities have come to comprise four percent less of the total. Retail and wholesale trade, on the other hand, represent two percent more of the total, government 4 percent and services 6 percent. This trend toward increased employment in distributive and tertiary industries is expected to continue.

THE SCENARIO of national economic development which I previously outlined is consistent with a much improved Michigan economy in the 1980s. The presence of three Michigan recessions in the 1970s has severely limited real economic gains in our state.

As noted, by most any broad-based economic yardsticks workers in the Michigan economy are barely better off in 1979 than they were in 1973, or in many cases, 1969.

The presence in the 1980s, however, of declining and not accelerating inflation rates, of a business fixed investment "boom," and of a surge in household formations by consumers who are in their prime acquisition stage of life, bodes well for this state's economy and its workers.

There are other ingredients which may further impact favorably on our economy.

First, in order to comply with federal mandates and to meet consumer demands for more fuel efficient stock or motor vehicles, the auto manufacturers and their subsidiaries will be investing some $100 billion in plant equipment and research in 1980-84.

Despite the presence of any "sunbelt strategy" which may be advanced over this period, Michigan stands to garner a major piece of this investment, as one-third of all motor vehicle production takes place in Michigan.

Ironically, I expect that the federal mandates will cause more investment to take place in Michigan than would have otherwise occurred if a sunbelt strategy does indeed exist.

In effect, the feds have forced the manufacturers to make investment plans and expenditures earlier than they ordinarily would have, which often makes retooling and rehabilitation of existing facilities in Michigan more economically wise than new construction elsewhere.

In lieu of the mandates, the manufacturers may have chosen to phase out certain Michigan facilities over the remainder of the century. Investment in Michigan by auto manufacturers' is also enhanced by the favorable treatment of capital outlays under Michigan's Single Business Tax as well as the high percentage of property tax abatement under Public Act 198 of 1974 which is accruing to auto companies.

SECOND, CONSTRUCTION activity may show even greater strength if the past weakness in several sectors is reversed. There are signs of an impending upsurge in multi-family units, commercial buildings and public works.

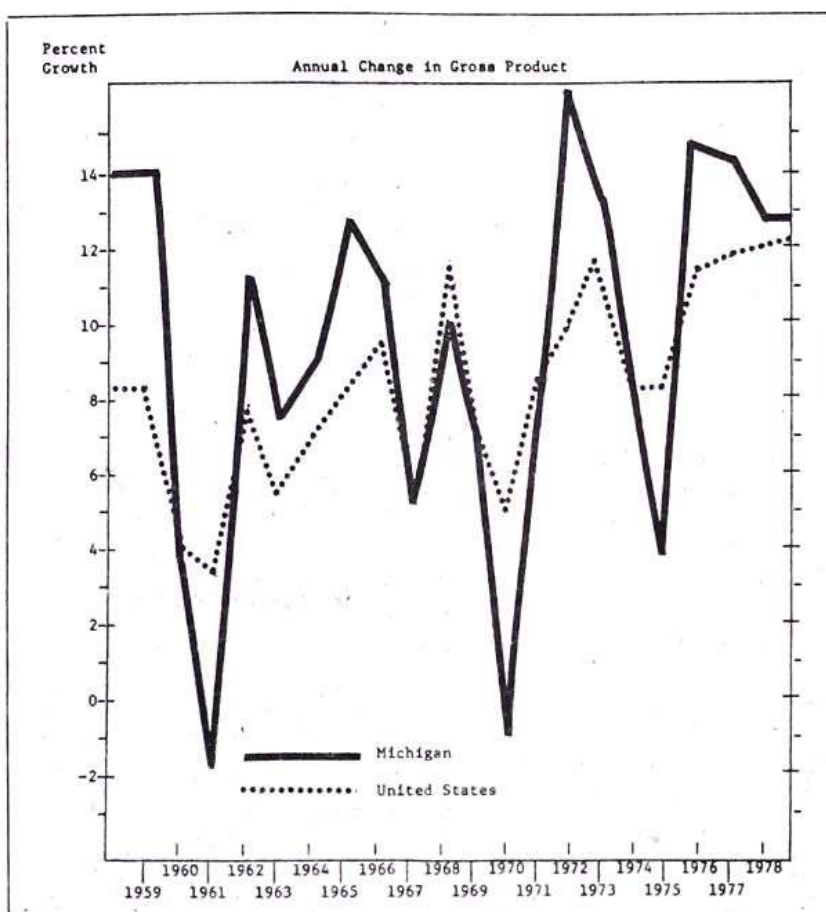

Third, due to the high technological requirements and the heavy machinery involved, Michigan stands to share in the benefits offered by the development of alternative energy sources.

Our efforts to secure the Solar Energy Research Institute (formerly located in Colorado) recently established by Congress convinced us that Michigan has much to offer and gain from this and other alternative energy developments.

Fourth, higher transportation costs will combine with Michigan's unique geographical location within Great Lakes to ensure that Michigan's tourism industry will be among the most rapidly growing sectors of our economy.

Manufacturing and agriculture rank first and second. It is conceivable that tourism will overtake agriculture in the number two spot in the 80s.

High transportation costs will cause travelers to take vacations closer to home.

This graph shows the relationship between gross national product and gross state product with Michigan showing higher amplitudes of swings in annual growth versus national growth. The differences are most noticeable at business cycle peaks and troughs.

Forecast for 1980: A Watershed Year

Much of the economic outlook for 1980 already has been determined by monetary and fiscal policies pursued since November of 1978.

The first half of 1980 is likely to find the economy in a recession, the lagged result of five months during which the Federal Reserve exercised restraint over the U.S. monetary base in order to curb inflation and bolster the dollar (this restraint occurred from November, 1978 through March, 1979).

However, in the subsequent seven months—between April and December 1979—renewed surges in the monetary base ignited new waves of inflationary expectations and led to record amounts of consumer credit expansion.

This unexpected acceleration in the monetary base came at a time when U.S. productivity rates had fallen deeply into the negative zone. Consequently, the recession we foresee in 1980 will be relatively shallow, and by the same token, will bring little relief from inflation. High inflation rates, in turn, reduce chances for a meaningful recovery in the last half of 1980.

In many ways, calendar year 1980 could very well symbolize the economic pause that did not refresh.

More importantly, 1980 marks a watershed for the U.S. economy in the decade ahead. It is a pivotal year because "knee-jerk" stimulation, experienced so often in prior years, could now lead to domestic and international instability of very dangerous proportions.

Specifically, if no long-term effort is undertaken to unwind inflation, it will become virtually impossible to convince any economic entity, domestic or foreign, that there can be rewards for saving or investing in the U.S.

With no equilibrium to the consumption-savings ratio, real growth will cease and inflation will destroy most of the long-term capital markets of the nation. The challenge of avoiding repetitive stimulation is even more awesome when one considers 1980 as an election year.

We are obliged to make the following assumptions—hopefully a realistic compromise between the unfortunate momentum of past errors that will be repeated and the budding wisdom that recognizes the source of current problems and attempts to implement corrective policies:

1. Monetary policy: approximately the same amount of stimulation in 1980 as in 1979 (i.e., growth of the monetary base in excess of 8 percent).

2. Fiscal policy: a deferred increase in Social Security taxes and a budget deficit that increases by $10-20 billion.

For the year 1980, real GNP declines by 0.5 percent. This is a relatively mild dip with the first quarter showing the steepest decline. The second quarter also shows contraction according to our forecast, but the economy stabilizes around mid-year. The third and fourth quarters show negligible growth because the inflation rates have not yet unwound sufficiently to allow real incomes to grow.

The overall price level (GNP deflator) again will rise approximately 9 percent, although the Consumer Price Index is likely to exhibit a pattern of diminished inflation late in the year, in response to weaker demand in the aftermath of at least two quarters of recession.

Sectors of GNP
The Two props supporting consumer spending during the 1975-79 recovery years were the expansion of real total personal income and the volume of credit extended.

Although real incomes had turned negative on a per capita basis early in 1979, total retail spending still rose in real terms because of the strong expansion in employment and the surge in installment and mortgage credit made possible through explicit Federal Reserve policy.

The Federal Reserve saw fit to increase reserves in the banking system at a 12 percent annual rate from May through November of 1979, thereby supporting a new buying frenzy that bid up prices on practically every item, from real estate to gold.

On October 6, 1979, The Federal Reserve sought to reverse errors of the preceding seven months—it allowed the cost of borrowed funds to rise as high as market forces were suggesting.

Higher rates rationed credit to consumers, immediately removing an essential prop to the consumption sector of the economy. In 1980, both housing and auto buying will exhibit further slowing.

We forecast total domestic and foreign car sales will slip toward the ten million unit level and that housing starts will not average over 1.6 million units. In neither case does the decline compare with the sharp contraction that characterized the 1974-75 recession.

The areas of the economy that are most likely to expand faster than overall GNP growth during 1980 are government spending and capital outlays by business on plants and offices.

Spending on structures often trails movement of the general economy, so it would be no surprise to see certain components of capital spending reach a peak while the economy is in recession. Such a lagged phenomenon softens the downturn.

In the automotive sector, many tool and die businesses as well as producers of machines and other categories of capital equipment will see little downturn, partly the result of federal requirements to meet safety and emission standards.

Our balance of payments and net export position will improve only to the extent our inflation rates decline more swiftly than those in nations with whom we trade.

Many nations acted far sooner and more decisively than the U.S. to stem inflation during 1979. Consequently, the recession we will experience in 1980 will not result in as large an improvement in our trade position as it otherwise would have.

Financial Markets
Short-term interest rates normally fall as credit demands decline and as the general economy weakens. This will characterize the U.S. economy during the first half of 1980.

However, interest rates, especially long-term rates, can only decline on a consistent and prolonged basis when inflation also is abating. For example, following the very sharp contraction in residential housing during 1974-75, mortgage rates took 16 months to fall from a peak of 10½ percent to 9 percent.

Thus, even if housing starts fell precipitously in 1980 (which we do not forecast), mortgage rates might not break into the 11-12 percent range before early 1981.

If fiscal and monetary policy stimulation can be reduced during 1980, then interest rates and inflation will return to a single digit range in early 1981, thereby laying the foundation for a healthier decade of real growth.

At this point in U.S. history, further adherence to inflationary policies will reduce our standards of living and political freedoms.

Tax reform impact felt

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

It began in California with Proposition 13 and spread across the United States. In Michigan it was Headlee vs. Tisch, tax limitation vs. a drastic cut in taxes.

In 1978 voters made their decision, opting for tax limitation as opposed to Tisch's proposal to cut taxes in half. And in the 14 months since that vote, few Western Wayne County residents have reaped the benefits of the Headlee amendment. In fact, only two communities—Westland and Canton Township—will be rolling back taxes in fiscal 1980-81.

Why are only two communities benefitting from the amendment? According to Westland Finance Director Robert Matzo, the amendment was dealt "an injustice" by the State Legislature in the drafting of the implementation legislation.

Under the proposal voters approved, the tax limitation would have involved millage currently levied by a community. The legislature, however, decided that the rollback would be applied against the maximum levy allowed by a community's charter.

"In essence, those communities under their maximum (tax levy) will see their taxes keep going up until they hit the limit," Matzo said. "When you're below your taxable limit, Headlee doesn't have an effect."

In Westland Headlee had an immediate effect. The community is at its maximum levy of 8 mills by charter. Last year (fiscal 1979-80) computations showed that the city had to roll back the 8 mills to 7.98 mills, losing some $8,000 in potential tax revenue.

Westland tops at $1,147,584

Recreation spurs employment, construction

Expenditures for recreational programs and services for communities in the circulation area of Associated Newspapers range all the way from $1,147,584 in Westland down to zero for the city of Belleville.

In some communities, inflation and the shrinking dollar have hurt parks and recreation programs, with the result that less money will be spent in the next fiscal year for those programs.

However, such is not the case in Westland. Ralph Tack, parks and recreation director, explained that although inflation is up, his city expects to spend more in the coming fiscal year for recreational improvements and services.

Tack could not say at this time just how much more Westland anticipates in recreational expenditures next fiscal year.

Currently, a lot is going on at Central City Park where tot lots, out lots and general improvements are being made in line with city's recreational master plan, he said.

Now under construction at the park are two buildings which will house concession booths, restrooms and scoring facilities for various types of athletic games. Also to be built next summer are special alleys that will enable residents to bowl on the green, he said.

Tack said the recreational improvements will continue into the next fiscal year at park areas in the north end of the city where two new soccer fields will be constructed. Late into the 1980-81 fiscal year, nature trails will be cut into the flora and fauna of Central City Park, said Tack.

Next in the amount of expenditures is Inkster, where Louis Jackson, parks and recreation director, said $903,382 has been set aside for his department in the current fiscal year.

Jackson said he anticipates about the same amount to be spent during the coming fiscal year. A five-year capital improvements program in Inkster will incorporate the renovation of playgrounds, parks and playground equipment, he noted.

Presently, money spent for recreation in Inkster is broken down into five areas: civic arena, which houses the city's ice rink, park maintenance, the city's new recreation complex, Inkster Community Center, and administration.

The city of Wayne now has $697,000 allocated for the operating budget of its parks and recreation department, according to Ted D'Pulos, director.

D'Pulos expects next year's recreation budget to be in the neighborhood of $660,000.

High on the list of recreational improvements in Wayne is what course will be followed in renovation of the city's 24-year-old swimming pool. With only 70-90 days each year in which swimmers can use an outdoor pool, D'Pulos said much thought is being given to possibly renovating the pool for use both as an outdoor and indoor recreational facility.

Listed among the possibilities is a plan to completely enclose the newly restructured pool, thus making it a combination outdoor-indoor pool, he said, and connecting it to the community center.

Also being discussed, D'Pulos explained, is a plan to tie Wayne into the bike route along the I-275 Expressway, thereby enabling cycling enthusiasts in the city to exercise at their sport.

Romulus, currently undergoing a severe financial shortage, will stress ways in which the recreational dollar can be stretched to add more services.

Dennis Davidson, parks and recreation director, said the $285,000 department budget will be cut by 20 percent next fiscal year due to inflation and cutbacks ordered by the mayor.

Under the present parks and recreation budget, Davidson said, a new children's park, Cypress Tot Lot, will be built on Cypress, west of Wayne Road, two new handball courts will be constructed at Elmer Johnson Park, and two new tennis courts added to Park No. 1 at Beverly and Henry Ruff roads.

He said the next fiscal year will see funds from a revitalization grant used to improve and repair the city's four neighborhood parks, now suffering from vandalism and wear and tear.

Next fiscal year also will see "user fees" assessed by the parks and recreation department for certain services which were formerly provided free of charge, he said. For example, karate lessons will now cost each person taking the course one dollar, he explained.

Davidson said Romulus and some of its neighbors are now experiencing the problem of how to pay for summer softball programs. Formerly, the city subsidized half of the cost, with the remaining half underwritten by private sponsors. However, with communities finding it more difficult to come up with dollars for recreation, they are unable to find enough funds for their half of the total cost, he said.

On the plus side, Davidson noted, Romulus next fiscal year hopes to expand athletic type programs for children and adults, such as volleyball, and the offering of more diverse athletic activities in its fall and winter recreational programs.

He said the expansion of recreational services hopefully can be accomplished without putting an additional burden on his department's budget.

In Van Buren Township, Mark Rairich, parks and recreation director, said he is hopeful that next fiscal year's budget for his department will top the $71,000 now earmarked for recreation and parks.

Planned, he said, is the development of three softball diamonds on land now leased under a 25-year option from the Ford Motor Co. He said recent approval of pre-application requests by the state Department of Natural Resources has paved the way for a final grant application of $45,000 from the DNR.

During the next few years, Rairich said, Van Buren hopes to develop a community recreation center.

Canton Township now has $186,000 set aside in the current budget, of which it has spent $155,000 thus far, said Mike Gouin, parks and recreation director. For next year, Canton has budgeted $171,457, he said.

Of the current year's budget, $89,000 is being spent for site development of the new 18-acre John W. Flodin Community Park on Saltz Road, between Sheldon and Lilley roads, he said. Flodin is the current township clerk.

Huron Township, according to Sup. Roy Raker, has a total of $29,000 earmarked for recreation and senior citizens, $15,000 of which represents funds carried over from the 1977, 1978 and 1979 fiscal years.

If federal matching funds can be obtained, next fiscal year's recreational allocations will be about $30,500, Raker said.

Included in this fiscal year's recreational program, starting this spring, he said, are: a hexagon shelter with roof and fireplace, surrounded by a jogging track of wood chip base, a 100 x 150 foot multi-purpose court, a baseball diamond, two basketball courts which can be used for ice skating in winter, and parking for 60 cars.

Included in the total recreational allocation, Raker said, are $3,500 for the Huron Athletic Association and summer programs and $7,000 for senior citizens activities. Next year's recreational funds will be roughly the same, the supervisor explained.

Of next year's recreational allocations, $25,000 is made up of $12,500 from Huron Township and an identical matching amount from federal funds. The township must obtain approval for the latter amount, Raker emphasized.

In Sumpter Township, Trustee John Morgan, who oversees the recreational program, could not be reached. However, Deputy Treasurer Leona Barber said she was aware of $2,000 in federal revenue sharing funds set aside by the township for recreational services.

In the city of Belleville, City Clerk Agnes Frisch said the city does not have a recreational program as such.

Headlee reform has an impact

This year (fiscal 1980-81) with an inflation rate of 15 percent, far in excess of the Consumer Price Index increase of 11.3 percent, the city will rollback the millage rate to 7.78 mills, losing another $112,000 in potential tax revenues.

City Assessor Glenn Shaw said the 15 percent increase inflation was on the true cash value of property in the community.

"Before Headlee, we could have spread the millage (8 mills) across the entire 15 percent increase," Shaw explained. "Under Headlee, we can levy roughly 97.45 percent of the millage this year."

Matzo added that while the true cash value of property in the community continues to increase more than the CPI, the community will have to roll back taxes. However, he emphasized that the rollback doesn't mean a resident will be getting a refund.

Under Headlee, taxes do increase, but only within the limits of the CPI increase. In short, Westlanders will be paying more in taxes this year, but those taxes won't be near as much as what could have been levied.

In Canton Township, officials are anticipating a 4 to 5 percent rollback in taxes in fiscal '80-81. However, Finance Director Mike Gorman said the specifics won't really be known until at least April.

"New construction saved us from a rollback last year," he said, "but we won't have so much this year. We anticipate a rollback ... Certainly, it will affect revenues, but it's too early to say if there will be a financial squeeze."

Other Western Wayne County communities have yet to be affected by the Headlee amendment.

According to Wayne City Manager Pat Cullen, the only effect the amendment has had on the community was on a paving program proposed for 1979.

The amendment not only limits the increase in taxes to the increase in the CPI, it also prevents a community from putting itself in debt and then levying a millage (debt retirement millage) to pay the bill. Under the amendment, only a vote of the community's electorate can permit the levying of new taxes, in effect giving the citizens more voice in their government.

"We weren't able to sell general obligation bonds to meet the city's share of the cost," Cullen explained, adding: "I can't blame Headlee for anything."

In fact, Cullen, like Matzo, was far more concerned over recent statements by Gov. William Milliken of possible cuts in the state budget, cuts that could affect the shared revenues cities, villages and townships received from the state.

"We depend quite a bit on shared revenues, diverted back to us. Cuts such as in the Highway Fund, could hurt us, especially our road maintenance program."

Romulus Assessor Dave Krause also predicts Headlee will have no effect on that community in the new fiscal year, even though Romulus probably will receive an increase in its equalization factor, something the community has been without for several years.

"We are sure Headlee will have no effect on us in 1980-81," he said. "Even though the factoring isn't in yet, our information is complete enough to know that Headlee won't have an effect."

Belleville Treasurer James White echoed Krause's optimism, saying that it "is doubtful that it will have any effect on us."

Belleville by charter can levy 20 mills, but according to White, the city hasn't reached its maximum yet.

He also said that it will be sometime in April — after the assessments and the tax board of review are complete — before officials in that community will know what effect, if any, Headlee will have. But White is optimistic that there will be no rollback.

Just as optimistic are officials in Van Buren Township. Stephanie Soja of Supervisor Pat Cullin's office, flatly said: "To date, Headlee has had no effect on us." But she is quick to add that "as far as the future goes, who knows."

Ms. Soja said that preliminary reports show that the equalization factor will be going up, but she isn't certain how much, even though she is confident Headlee won't affect operations in Van Buren Township in the coming fiscal year.

Inkster falls below its tax limit of 20 mills, so "at the present time we have a little leeway," said Treasurer Bruce Cook, who added that if inflation comes under control, "we may have to make some adjustments."

"But the way the assessor has been telling me, the present appreciation of property (in Inkster) won't be high enough to anticipate a rollback."

So with just over a year of life under the Headlee amendment, it is having its effect on some communities while others are seeing their taxes keep escalating. For some the tax bite is being made a little more tolerable under the amendment. For the others, their taxes will have to increase far more even more before they benefit.

Is Headlee a good thing?

"Headlee was a good thing," said Westland's finance director. "It helps property owners by keeping taxes down, and the burden of financing government has always been on the taxpayers."

Added Westland Assessor Glenn Shaw: "Headlee keeps everything even in the state."
